Lakota: Raffle for band

Band boosters running the contest were stunned too.

The odds were so unlikely that any of the 17 cash-prize winners, much less the grand prize winner, would be among the small group of band supporters watching the drawing that no one knew quite what to do. And then they broke out in applause.

A West Chester Township resident, O'Brien is a 1999 graduate of Lakota East High School and is studying for a master's degree in audiology from UC.

"I'm a graduate student and so I'm broke. This is a good day."

Pat Pride, secretary for the Lakota West band boosters, marveled at O'Brien's good fortune.

"That she would be standing right here during the drawing is a 1-in-1,030 chance. This is wonderful," Pride said.

O'Brien was the top winner among 17 winners who paid $150 per ticket. Besides the $42,000 jackpot, other cash prizes ranged from $500 to $10,000.

The raffle raised less money than originally hoped. At first the raffle offered a $400,000 house, but not enough tickets were sold. So the raffle was converted to a cash prize. Had all 5,000 tickets been sold, the top prize could have been as high as $300,000.

But band boosters were happy with the $150,000 raised by the raffle, saying it was the largest band fundraiser in Lakota West's history.

Money raised will be used for scholarships to help pay the $1,700-per-student cost families must pay for the weeklong trip.

"We couldn't have asked for a better outcome," said Rick Armstrong, treasurer of the booster club.

"We get a lot of students who drop out and use up their grace period of six months after leaving college to start paying back their loans."

To try to keep students from defaulting, colleges counsel students about their obligations before they accept a loan and again when they leave school.

"We have a default management plan in which we offer students extra counseling to make sure they understand repayment obligations and what default means and how devastating it can be," said Cutter.

"We all realize that default is a

The national default average of 4.6 percent is slightly lower than the previous year's rate of 5.1 percent.

U.S. Department of Education officials said a record high number of loan consolidations, as well as forbearance and deferments granted to victims of hurricanes Katrina and Rita, contributed to the decline.

Many borrowers took advantage of the opportunity to lock in record low interest rates by consolidating several loans into a single loan with new repayment terms that may extend the standard payback period of 10 years to 30 years, lowering monthly payments.
