SECTION 2 – METERING AND BILLING

1. Quantity of Gas Delivered by Meter. Gas will be measured by a meter installed by the Company. Subject to certain exceptions enumerated below, consumption shall be determined on the basis of the meter registration; and bills shall reflect the consumption so registered. Any mistake in reading the registration, however, shall not affect the liability for gas consumed as determined by a corrected reading of the registration.
  - (a) Unit of Measurement. The unit of measurement shall be that quantity of gas which will occupy one cubic foot of volume at a pressure of fourteen and seventy-three hundredths (14.73) pounds per square inch absolute (thirty [30] inches of mercury) at a base temperature of sixty (60) degrees Fahrenheit, and without adjustment for water vapor content. To determine the volume of gas delivered, factors such as those required for pressure, temperature, and specific gravity and deviation from Boyle's Law shall be applied.
  - (b) Unmetered Service. Without prejudice to the Company providing metered service, the Company may provide unmetered gas service where warranted to gas lights and gas burning equipment located outside the building(s) where metered service is provided, using for billing purposes the approximate average consumption of such equipment at the Company's applicable rate.
  - (c) Meter Reading; Estimated Bill. Meters ordinarily are read at monthly intervals by the Company or its Agent. At a minimum, the Company or its Agent shall make reasonable attempts to obtain actual readings of its customer meters every other month, except where the customer and the Company have agreed to other arrangements; provided, however, that the Company shall read each Customer's meter at least once every twelve months. Any arrangements made with a Customer in regards to obtaining an actual reading shall be made by phone or mailed notice. Meter readings taken by electronic means (i.e., automated meter reading equipment) shall be considered actual readings. When billing Customers based on estimated usage, the Company shall calculate the amount due using the applicable rate(s) in effect during each period of estimated usage.
