OHIO'S FIRST LADY HELPS DEDICATE TOLEDO SCHOOL

THE BLADE/EREMY WADSWORTH

Ohio's First Lady, Frances Strickland, talks with DaVellio Maya, 7, after the dedication ceremony for the new Larchmont Elementary School at 1515 Slater St. With DaVellio yesterday were his parents, Tina Maya and Peter Magris, Jr. DaVellio is a third grader at Larchmont, one of seven new schools opened by Toledo Public Schools for the current academic year.

U.S. to boost infantry by 14,000 in Afghanistan, send clerks home

FROM THE BLADE'S NEWS SERVICES

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials are planning to add as many as 14,000 combat troops to the American force in Afghanistan by sending home support staff and underutilized soldiers and replacing them with infantry units, Defense Department officials said.

and demonstrate progress amid crumbling public support for the war effort.

Forces that could be swapped out include units assigned to noncombat duty, such as guards or lookouts, or those on clerical and support squads.

"It makes sense to get rid of the clerks and replace them with the potential need for additional troops in the future, but could reduce the size of any request from Army Gen. Stanley McChrystal, the top U.S. and allied commander, officials said.

The plan reflects the view that after eight years of war, much of the military bureaucracy that has built up no longer serves a useful

Deal inked to keep Farr LPGA event

Players' revolt begun here paves way for year extension

By DAVE HACKENBERG
BLADE SPORTS COLUMNIST

An LPGA player revolt hatched here in early July apparently paved the way for the professional golf tour's return to the Toledo area in 2010.

Toledo Classic Inc., which operates the Jamie Farr Owens Corning Classic, has scheduled an afternoon news conference today to announce an extension of its agreement with the LPGA Tour.

A source familiar with the negotiations indicated it will be a one-year contract that assures the tournament will be staged in 2010. No details on playing dates or purse were made available.

Tournament director Judd Silverman said he would not comment prior to the news conference, which is to be held at the tournament's office on Dorr Street.

The Farr Classic, which celebrated its 25th anniversary this past July at Highland Meadows Golf Club, was one of seven U.S.-based tour stops operating without contracts beyond 2009. One of them, the Judd Silverman, tournament director, says the Farr Classic has raised over $8.2 million for children's charities.

It had been an annual stop for the tour since 1979.

That brought the total to seven tournaments lost by the LPGA since the start of 2007. There are several others with contracts beyond 2009 that are threatened by a lack of sponsorship.

After the conclusion of the 2009 Farr Classic on July 5, the tour went without a full-field event, open to all tour members, on U.S. soil until last week's Safeway Classic in North Plains.

One other than the limited-field Solheim Cup competition, that was the only LPGA Tour event scheduled during the month of August.
