Notes: I am against the fast tracking of a rate increae of $390 million for distibution costs from 2011 thru 2014. This is unaffordable for the residential customers, this amount of rate increase requires time to study and determine it's benefits to the customers versus the cost. Any rush to approval is never a good idea from a monopoly like First Energy. Secondly, you want to study restoreing the original discount to all electric home owners until next spring. That cost to first Energy is very small in comparison. We call that study delay and deny. thirdly, FE will create another class of prefered clients with financial offsets i.e. Cleveland Clinic, Ohio colleges and Universities. Yet FE wants to breach a contract with all-electric home owners and through them underthe bus. This is wrongon both counts. A rush to rate increases of $390m and delaying all-electric permanent and forever discounts. It just smells of politics.
