RE: Case Number 10-388-EL-SSO

Dear PUCO Staff:

Thank you for doing the work you do in representing the citizens of the great state of Ohio. I appreciate your diligence.

I urge you to reject FirstEnergy's proposal to establish an electric security plan, and urge you to issue a decision on the utility's pending market rate offer case. I am concerned that:

-the new delivery capital recovery charge would allow FirstEnergy to collect up to $390 million without a provision to review the prudence or fairness of the expenses.

-we should not have to pay the costs associated with FirstEnergy's business decision to switch from one regional transmission organization to another.

-the economic development arrangements that would cost electric consumers millions of dollars should be considered in separate proceedings, require full disclosure of information that allows PUCO to do a complete review, and require accountability for jobs creation.

In conclusion, I believe the lowest-cost electric rates for residential electric consumers would be achieved through the market rate offer.

I commend you for taking the full time required to diligently review FirstEnergy's proposal. PUCO's final decision on the proposal, as you know, is of great importance to Ohio residential electric consumers like me. Thank you for your time and consideration of my concerns.

Sincerely,

Daniel Boyer
