COMMENT DESCRIPTION:

Re: Case number 10-176-EL-ATA

This comment is in response to the PUCO request for suggestions regarding the all-electric discount.

First Energy should be required to help any all-electric customer who wishes to convert to natural gas to do so. The cost of installing a gas line to the home from streets that already service gas homes should be completely paid by First Energy along with the cost to convert to a gas furnace.

In the case of neighborhoods who do not have natural gas, it would seem to be an incentive for the gas companies to provide this to gain additional customers when considering First Energy's requirement of street-to-home gas line and the furnace.

Customers can then decide if they want to convert water heaters, stoves and dryers at their own cost.
