COMMENT DESCRIPTION:

Regarding -- 10-176-EL-ATA. Deep discounts for 'all electric' homes. I find myself in the strange situation of agreeing with First Energy. They cannot continue deep discounts for 'all electric' homes which may or may not have been based on promises made 30 years ago. Most of all, the costs should not be passed on to other customers. That is just in no way shape or form fair. I would, however, support aid to families whose incomes are below say $30,000 a year. If you are forced to make some sort of compromise, those in 'all electric' homes should pay at least 75% of the true costs, not the 40% (or less) they are paying now.
