Notes:

Comment on the issue of discounted electricity for all electric homes. It appears that First Energy made these offers of a life long discount over a period of years to encourage people to build/buy all electric homes. This is a decision made by First Energy not by the rate payers. First Energy should continue to offer the discount to existing costumers and to people who buy these homes from the existing home owners. Otherwise the current property owners may not beable to sell these homes. If First Energy does not wish to do this, then they should make funds available to the homeowners so that they can convert to mixed service. First Energy created this mess, First Energy is responsible for fixing it. Existing customers should not be asked to pay for First Energy's mistakes. There should be no rate increseas or surcharges added to cover this. Let First Energy fix it out of their profits. The stock holders are responsible a long with the board of directors. They reap the benefits of the profits, they must also deal with the losses.
