THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF OHIO

2013 APR 15 PM 1:14

In the Matter of the Application of Interstate Gas Supply, Inc. For Approval
Of its Alternative Energy Annual Status
Report.

Case No. 13-922 EL-ACP
PUCO

INTERSTATE GAS SUPPLY, INC.'S
MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE TREATMENT

Interstate Gas Supply, Inc. ("IGS"), by its attorneys and pursuant to Section 4901-1-24(D) of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio's ("Commission's") Rules, move for a protective order keeping confidential the designated confidential and/or proprietary information concurrently filed under seal with this motion in the above-captioned docket.

The information for which protective treatment is sought is IGS' customer load information and renewable energy credit ("REC") purchase amount, which amount can be used to extrapolate IGS' customer load information ("Confidential Information") contained in IGS' Application for Approval of its Alternative Energy Annual Status Report ("Application"). A confidential, unredacted version of the Application has been filed concurrently with this motion under seal with the Commission. The reasons underlying this motion are detailed in the attached Memorandum in Support. Consistent with the requirements of Section 4901-1-24(D) of the Commission's Rules, three unredacted copies of the Application have been simultaneously filed under seal.

Respectfully submitted,

BEFORE
THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF OHIO

In the Matter of the Application of	:
Interstate Gas Supply, Inc. For Approval	:	Case No. 13-____-EL-ACP
Of its Alternative Energy Annual Status	:
Report.	:

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF
MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE TREATMENT

Pursuant to O.A.C. § 4901:1-24(D), IGS requests protective treatment of IGS' customer load information and renewable energy credit ("REC") purchase amount, which amount can be used to extrapolate IGS' customer load information. The information for which protection is sought includes competitively sensitive information and proprietary business and financial information relating to IGS' business operations, comprising of trade secrets. The public release of this information would cause harm to IGS and its future operations and would compromise its ability to compete with retail electric suppliers on an equal basis.

The Commission's Rules allow for protective treatment of certain confidential information filed at the Commission in order to prevent disclosure of such information. O.A.C. 4901-1-24(D) states in part:

“(D) Upon motion of any party or person with regard to the filing of a document with the commission’s docketing division relative to a case before the commission, the commission, the legal director, the deputy legal director, or an attorney examiner may issue any order which is necessary to protect the confidentiality of information contained in the document, to the extent that state or federal law prohibits release of the information, including where the information is deemed by the commission, the legal director, the deputy legal director, or the attorney examiner to constitute a trade secret under Ohio law, and where nondisclosure of the information is not inconsistent with the purposes of Title 49 of the Revised Code. Any order issued under this paragraph shall minimize the amount of information protected from public disclosure.”

(emphasis added).

Ohio law recognizes the need to provide protective treatment to information such as the Confidential Documents. Under R.C. 1333.61(D), “Trade secret” means:

“information, including the whole or any portion or phase of any scientific or technical information, design, process, procedure, formula, pattern, compilation, program, device, method, technique, or improvement, or any business information or plans, financial information, or listing of names, addresses, or telephone numbers, that satisfies both of the following:

(1) It derives independent economic value, actual or potential, from not being generally known to, and not being readily ascertainable by proper means by, other persons who can obtain economic value from its disclosure or use.

(2) It is the subject of efforts that are reasonable under the circumstances to maintain its secrecy.”

Expounding upon the definition of “trade secret,” the Ohio Supreme Court has delineated factors to be considered when analyzing a trade secret claim:

(1) The extent to which the information is known outside the business, (2) the extent to which it is known to those inside the business, i.e., by the employees, (3) the precautions taken by the holder of the trade secret to guard the secrecy of the information, (4) the savings effected and the value to the holder in having the information as against competitors, (5) the amount of effort or money expended in obtaining and developing the information, and (6) the amount of time and expense it would take of others to acquire and duplicate information.

State ex. rel. The Plain Dealer v. Ohio Dept. of Ins. (1997), 80 Ohio St. 3d 513, 524-525.

The definition of “trade secret” clearly reflects the state policy favoring the protection of trade secrets such as the customer load information which is the subject of this motion. The Confidential Information consists of forecasted customer load information and future REC requirements that are proprietary, confidential and that constitute trade secrets. Public disclosure of this information would jeopardize IGS’ business position and impair competition in the marketplace. By examining the Confidential Information, competitors could reasonably estimate IGS' potential growth, market share and margins. Competitors could use the Confidential Information to make strategic decisions in response to IGS' Application.

The information contained in the Confidential Information is not generally known by the public, is held in confidence in the normal course of business, and has never appeared in the public record. The Confidential Information sought to be protected is disclosed to only a few key personnel at IGS.

Furthermore, IGS is a privately-held company and, therefore, would be especially vulnerable if protective treatment was not granted. Indeed, the Commission has previously found the need for protective treatment to be especially "persuasive for the privately held companies."¹

Lastly, granting confidential treatment to the information will not impair the purposes of Ohio Revised Code Title 49, because the documents filed under seal will allow the Commission and Staff to have full access to the information.

The reasons set forth above demonstrate that the Confidential Information has actual, substantial independent economic value from not being generally known, and not being ascertainable by proper means by persons who would derive economic value from disclosure.
