Reason for Reallocation:	The residential development site is located on the border of DP&L and Ohio Edison's electric service territories. The current territory border passes through the middle of several lots within this development. In order to alleviate any concern over which entity is entitled to serve the bifurcated lots, the Companies have agreed to extend DP&L's border to include the lots in question, while relinquishing another sector of the development to Ohio Edison. The metes & bounds description below establishes the sector that is to become part of DP&L's electric service territory.
