Dear Public Utilities Commission of Ohio:

I am writing to encourage you to deny the request of Duke Energy and First Energy for a bailout for their outdated and expensive coal plants. Taxpayers are stretched as thin as many can manage. Even just one more "only a few cents a month," will push some people over their line. I volunteer with a group that gives out free pet food so people can afford to pay their bills AND keep their dogs and cats, and I know how strapped many families are. One of my senior clients had, at the middle of one month, $4.00 left until her next Social Security check 18 days later.

I further support requiring the companies to be held accountable to their customers as well as to their shareholders. It is the big picture, and a win-win, that will secure us all a good future.

Thank you.

Best regards,

Sue Ellen Brown

I am writing to encourage you to deny the requests of Duke Energy to receive financial bailouts for outdated, polluting coal plants. Now more than ever, humans have a responsibility to encourage the growth of a sustainable energy industry. Rewarding profitable companies for irresponsible energy production is no way to do that. Please do the responsible thing and deny this bailout request from Duke.

Dear PUCO Representatives:

Clean air matters. Doesn't this go without saying?

It has recently come to my attention that Duke Energy is planning to submit plans to the PUCO for financial bailouts of outdated, cost-inefficient, toxic coal plants, and essentially force consumers to cover the costs. How is this fair?

Duke is interested only in maximizing profits, and not in running a responsible, ethical business. Will the PUCO do the right thing and deny Duke's request, or will it support Duke's wish to have Ohio citizens – including my family – subsidize their outdated technology and exacerbate Ohio's air pollution problem?

Please do the right thing and deny Duke's unreasonable requests.

Dear PUCO Representatives:

It has recently come to my attention that Duke Energy is planning to submit plans to the PUCO for financial bailouts of outdated, cost-inefficient, toxic coal plants, and essentially force consumers to cover the costs. How could this possibly be considered fair? With all of the sources of renewable energy available in this country – many of them at an increasingly more reasonable cost – why isn't Duke Energy more interested in doing what's right for its customers?

Perhaps the answer is simple: Duke is interested only in maximizing profits, and not in running a responsible, ethical business. Shame on Duke!

My family and I should not have to pay for Duke to continue spewing toxins into the air.

Please do the right thing and deny Duke's unfair requests.

Two things:

1. We are sick of being dinged and without any say so except through organizations such as this.
  - We have a solar collector & use wood in our wood burning stove in the winter to reduce our costs. Every time we think we might do better you raise rates. We are stuck. We use less, you charge more.
  - you need to be accountable because we don't have endlessly deep pockets
  - manage your $

2. Solar/wind power would reduce toxic pollution which may slow down global warming & leave a better world for my grandsons

I am concerned about the possibility of having to subsidize Duke Energy's coal plant costs, particularly in light of their recent environmental catastrophe. My family and I care about energy efficiency, green energy sources, and environmental responsibility. The rumored bailout would not only increase our utility bill but also set a dangerous precedent of public involvement in poor environmental practice. Not only do we feel that we should not have to contribute for Dukes proposed upgrade of their coal plants, we also feel that phasing out coal plants is a sound strategy.

I do not support Duke Energy's attempt to bail out aging, outdated coal plants on my dime through a non-bypassable rider. These plants are not competitive with today's market prices for electricity, and they spew toxic pollution into our air and water. We should not have to pay more for dirty energy. I am a part of the City of Cincinnati's electric aggregation program and am proud my monthly bill goes towards clean renewable energy and not dirty coal. Coal, which generates nearly 70 percent of electricity in Ohio causes air pollution, negatively impacts public health and is a major contributor to climate disruption. Due to Ohio's heavy reliance on coal, we have some of the worst air pollution in the nation. Duke Energy's request is outrageous, and will cost ratepayers more than money. It will cost us our health and right to clean air by keeping dirty coal plants online.

Please do not approve Duke Energy's request, do what is right for all Ohioans, not just the companies. Reject this proposal.

To the P.U.C.O.

It has come to my attention that Duke Energy wants public assistance for replacing older coal fired plants. As a recently retired citizen, living on less than half of my former salary, I cannot afford higher rates. In the past few years, I have been actively replacing all light bulbs, appliances, and heating and air conditioning to more energy efficient models. I suggest Duke do more to encourage conservation of energy to make older coal plants unnecessary. Duke could also set up mini solar farms on the thousands of commercial and industrial flat roofs in the area. Coal energy has gone from bad to worse. While scrubbers reduce some of the air pollution, mountain top removal mining practices negate the gains by ten fold.

We need to consider not only the financial portion: to be clear I do not wish to pay extra money for choices on energy driven by the benefit of the owners companies but also how we affect our environment with poor energy generation sources. Animal and plant are also affected by these poor choices. Cleaner energy resources is a right thing to do, for everyone.

I care about Duke Energy trying to pass the buck because as someone who is already paying for my electricity to buy oil, coal, gas, etc., it feels as if the buck is being passed must pay all of the bills. I am okay with some folks as it is necessary in a large society. However, large corporations need to put community first as well. I receive my little in town bucks, and I commit to help my neighbors after. If the energy companies would have kept current and looked to the future, they wouldn't be in this situation. Why should we bail them out for the mistakes they willfully made.

We need Duke to be held accountable to their customers first and shareholders second

To Whom It May Concern:

Ohio's future, specifically our economic and environmental futures are in dire jeopardy. We are ranked third in the nation for air pollution and in order to reverse this, we must hold our utility companies: FirstEnergy, Duke, and American Electric Power accountable for their carbon emissions.

Due to our current renewable energy freeze at the state level for the next two years, it is imperative that PUCO (Public Utilities Commission of Ohio) does not increase consumers' electric bills for these companies' financial bailout. PUCO must deny the proposal to save these companies' outdated, unsafe, and expensive coal-fired power plants.

I am urging the Environmental Protection Agency to create a strong carbon standard plan in place in order to ensure their plants are run responsibly. It is absurd to ask Ohio residents to pay more in order to suffer real environmental hazards that pollute the air we breathe.

Ohio will suffer financially and environmentally for this proposal that favors companies over human and environmental life.

Public Utilities Commission of Ohio,

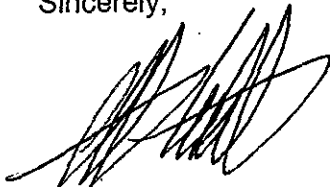

It has come to my attention that First Energy and Duke have submitted plans for financial bailouts of outdated coal fired power plants in the state of Ohio. It seems that these utilities are trying to prevent the inevitable move to cleaner energy for the sake of their own profits.

I am writing to you to plead for the adoption of measures to speed the implementation of cleaner methods of delivering electricity. The future is now and we need to move away from dirty technologies even if the work is hard and the cost seems high. Burning coal harms the environment and anyone or thing breathing air.

Please work to reduce air pollution and save the public money by forcing Duke Energy to be held accountable to customers, not their shareholders. We need to end the freeze on Ohio's renewable energy standards which had helped to save the public money before it was frozen to allow Duke and First Energy time to "study" the issue, which really means they are trying to find a way to kill the program.

Let's embrace the future of energy production by leading our state and others by making smart choices based on health and welfare for all instead of profits for a few.

Dear Commissioners,

I write to express my support of those working to prevent Duke Energy from receiving unwarranted financial aid from the Ohio legislature and state agencies.

Yes, I favor reducing pollution. Yes, I favor keeping energy rates - especially those provided by "public" utilities - as low as is reasonable.

But I even more strongly disfavor public utilities benefitting from a lack of foresight and lack of internal responsibility that, in my estimation, Duke Energy has propagated since its take over of Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co some years ago.

It would be rewarding - and fair - if the Duke managers could be persuaded to hold themselves accountable to the public first, not shareholders.

Please do not subsidize the kind of thinking that continues to reward Duke Energy for the same mediocre, shortsightedness, and somewhat predatory profiteering that the cable industry has been able to obtain.

Hold Duke Energy responsible. Deny that firm its requests for subsidy - subsidy for which taxpayers will, in effect, pay twice.

Thank you,

Chris Yeager

At this time in our history, I do not think that it is wise that we continue to rely so heavily on the use of coal as an energy source. You/they have known the effects of coal on our air and oceans and flora to the east of our power plants for decades. Rather than excuse your reliance on coal as you have pleaded for without recourse to other sources, I feel it is time that we say no to your plan. Dear PUCO,

We care about this issue for multiple reasons. Duke Energy needs to be accountable to their customers who through their monthly utility costs purchase energy. We want to support clean energy sources, not outdated polluting technology. We also need a reasonable, responsible cost structure for energy so that everyone can afford to heat and cool their homes. We live on a fixed income and like many other Ohioans can not afford this type of increase in basic energy cost.

I believe that we need to look for ways to provide clean energy at a reasonable rate; however, I do not believe that my rates should increase nor should I be forced to buy power from specific plants to make this happen. Dear P.U.C.O.

I firmly believe bailing out Duke Energy by finding out of date coal power plants is bad for my family, the environment, and Ohio. I believe clean renewable energy is our future in every way. It will save our environment and ultimately save money.

Please hold Duke Energy accountable and do not find dirty energy

Sincerely,

Dear PUCO,

I am writing this letter because I want to reduce air pollution, save money on my electric bill and urge our utilities to provide cleaner energy sources for our electricity. Any effort to move in this direction would be greatly appreciated. Also, my family and I care about reducing toxic pollution and while reducing pollution, we support the use of clean energy instead, Thank you for considering the feelings of your customers,

Sincerely,

Dear PUCO,

My family & budget are important to me. I do my share to conserve my energy in my home so I expect the same from my provider.

Thank you,

I am writing to you regarding Duke Energy's efforts to force customers to pay for energy generated by their outdated coal plants. I am concerned about both reducing toxic pollution and saving money on my electric bill by supporting clean energy. I should not have to pay for Duke Energy to continue polluting our air using outdated technology. Duke Energy must be held accountable to its customers—and all citizens of Ohio—rather than their shareholders. I urge you to deny their requests for financial bailouts and for disregarding renewable energy standards.

My family and I care about reducing toxic pollution and saving money on our electricity

Closing the Beckjord Coal Plant is a start, but a sustained effort is necessary to slow down our polluting the atmosphere with CO<sub>2</sub>. If it take increased rates are required to do it, I am willing to do my part.

As a user of Dukes energy and a stock holder I support the need to clean the atmosphere. Shifts to Natural Gas and other Green energy sources are need. Duke and other providers need to bear their share of the Costs.
