Dear Duke Energy, (PUCO)

14-841-EL-SSD

I care about the issue because Duke needs a long term plan to improve their coal plants. First to make them more efficient and second to make them state of the art and modern.

I do not feel that a public bailout is fair as the Duke management has not prepared for future growth and upgrades of their systems.

We need Duke Energy to be held accountable to their customers not their shareholders.

I was shocked to learn just how inefficient our coal plants are & find it unjust that the consumer is going to pay the price for these outdated systems & to bail them out. Haven't we learned anything from our country's recent history? A bailout of old polluting technology only benefits utility shareholders & delays inevitable investments needed & renewable energy.

Please Deny The rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest coal plants.

PUCO,

It has come to my attention that Duke would like Energy buyers to pay for outdated energy production.

Are these power plants so old that they cost more to produce energy? If so, should they not be completely amortized from their assets? That should be the cost-savings you expect from using old assets. Not charging a higher utility per kWh.

Aside from the obvious environmental impact, let us step back and wonder why they keep utilizing them. Because they know they can charge us for this. Why would I pay a premium for inefficient and ecologically damaging power? Because you allowed them to do that. Please don't hurt my wallet and the environment, because Duke can't keep up with modern energy and business practices

(RE: Case # 14-084 IEL-SSO)

My family and I care about making the environment better - especially for those who suffer from polluted air the most. We don't want our taxes and other public resources to support more pollution-generating energy sources.

We support, whole heartedly, any clean air (mitigation of polluted air) - promoting sources of energy. We strongly urge you @ PUCO to direct your funding toward opportunities to develop renewable energy production that doesn't burn toxic material.

Too many people - especially young & old, are impacted by the toxins in our environment. My family does what we can to reduce waste, to use less energy and fuel. We ask that our public officials also make conscious decisions to improve the quality of life for the citizens within its jurisdiction and beyond.

I urge you to deny the proposed rate increase which will lock consumers into purchasing power from old and outdated coal powered generating plants. It is time that energy providers acknowledge that continued operation of outdated power plants results in unacceptable levels of pollution of air, land and water and that newer equipment, and alternative energy solutions exist which can produce electrical energy at lower costs with less pollution. A bailout of old pollution technology only benefits utility shareholders and delays investment in more efficient and renewable energy sources such as wind turbines, solar generators, and biogas fired generators. To Whom It May Concern:

As a utility consumer in Ohio, I ask that you strongly reconsider the "bailout" of outdated and inefficient coal plants here in our state. In the tri-state area alone, we have some of the worst polluting coal plants throughout the United States. Although there is no doubt that something needs to be done in order to bring these plants up to higher standards for emissions, throwing that burden onto the already strained consumer is not the best route.

Two-thirds of Ohio supports exploring other options for alternative energy uses, our power providers should take the view of the consumer. The continued use of coal will only further our dependence on a dirty resource and only further environmental problems in our area that future generations will have to pay for. Rather than passing the financial burden onto our children and grandchildren, lets do something now. Lets look into alternative fuel methods and not waste our money on inefficient plants that will only waste the consumer's money.

We, the Krumme family, do not support the raise in our energy bill or the continued support of outdated coal plants in Ohio.

I was contacted by Ohio Citizen Action regarding the proposed financial bailout of the coal plants. As they suggested, I have done some research on this topic, and based on my research, I am submitting this petition to request your Commission to stop the bailout. I have determined it will not be in the best interest of either the state of Ohio or the taxpayers (that means me and my family) to continue to subsidize the out-of-date coal plants for the next 15 years. The energy can be provided more effectively using non-coal powered facilities. The taxpayers and utility customers need a more responsive utility industry.

Please do not subsidize any more coal facilities – they need replacement ASAP with solar, wind and natural gas.

Dear Duke,

Thank you for this opportunity.

While I agree it's almost barbaric that in 2014 we're still burning coal to produce energy, a 19th century technology, I don't agree that a move to a different energy source should be subsidized at the expense of the people.

While Global warming remains a favorite hot topic of politicians, the reality is all scientist familiar with the topic agree that greenhouse trapping gasses have been higher in the past pre-industrialization... even "pre-human".

That you are being taxed on a "carbon tax" basis, which you'll of course pass on to the end users, is merely reflective of the tentacles of a bureaucracy which your lobbyist have proven to them was a profitable endeavor (quid pro quo). Not to mention a great venue for testing out a new medium of exchange (currency - carbon tax / energy credit).

Bureaucracy is the epitome of inefficiency. But even though being highly regulated, you're unequivocally positioned to make a difference. over

~~So for the sake of all our children,~~

So for the sake of all our children, pursue alternate energy sources, and disclose it to the public!

Even idiots can appreciate a good gesture.
