Dirty coal is on its way out -- both because it pollutes the planet and because it's becoming less and less economically viable. Reject the bailouts for dirty coal plants, so that Ohio can reduce dangerous emissions and start building a clean energy future.

If the Public Utilities Commission approves these requests, it would block progress on clean, renewable energy sources by forcing them to compete in a market skewed toward propping up outdated, dirty energy. It would lock in dirty coal in Ohio for years to come, when the state should be transitioning to clean, renewable sources of energy.

We urge you to reject these requests.

Thank you,

Zoe
