To Governor John Kasich and PUCO:

I am a big supporter of your campaign issues and ideas and feel you've done a lot with helping make Ohio strong again. However, Like many other citizens in Ohio I'm concerned with where the environment in this state is heading. This letter is in regards to case #14-1297-EL-SSO.

I pay my bill to The Illumination Company, a First Energy Company. I feel a bailout of the state's outdated coal plants would be a bad move for our environment and for the general population. A bailout of old, polluting technology only benefits utility shareholders and delays inevitable investments in efficiency and renewable energy. I work in the health care industry and know how important ones health is for the overall welfare of our citizens. We can't forget what history has taught us, an unhealthy environment isn't limited to just the immediate population.

Please deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest coal plants. My family and I care about reducing toxic pollution and saving money on our electric bill. But most importantly making Ohio healthier for all of us in the future.

Sincerely,

Scott Kruchan

Dear Governor Kasich -

I am writing to express my concern over the proposed First Energy Bailout. I feel that this is not the time to be investing in outdated and inefficient power plants. Instead, I think it is time for a long overdue investment in efficiency and renewable ~~eng~~ energy.

Dear Governor John Kasich and PUCO,

Our family cares about reducing toxic pollution and we believe that a bailout plan (especially a fifteen year plan) for coal burning power plants is short sighted. Furthermore, this delays the investment in renewable energy that is needed in the modern world. In Ohio, there is potential to build new industry around the renewable energy business. and we would support a more forward thinking alternative to the current plan.

To whom it may concern at the PUCO,

I am a concerned citizen here in the state of Ohio and I am writing to implore you not to support the bailout of the state's coal plants. We need to focus our money on renewable energy that doesn't pollute the air any more than it already has been. I want my future children to be able to grow up and not have to worry that the air that they are breathing is slowly killing them. I would love them to grow up and not have to worry that the earth is going to run out of resources to sustain the growing number of citizens.

Please don't listen to the shareholders of these coal plants, they seem to be only interested in the dividends in their pockets and not the environment. We need to take a stand for the earth for once. The days of doing whatever we want to in the name of technological advancement are over. We have to find a way to reverse the damage that is already done to the earth to protect the future generations. I know that you will do the right thing.

Thank you for your time!

Governor,

As a person that believes strongly in the knowledge and experience of scientists around the world, I am in agreement with them and concerned about the future of our planet's health. Climate change is real. As a civilized society it is our responsibility to strive to improve. Coal technology is outdated and I would rather my money fund newer, more efficient technologies with less of an environmental impact. Wind, and now solar energies are alternatives that I believe should be investigated.

In reference to Case Number 14-1297-EL-SSO for FirstEnergy, please deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest coal plants.

Dear John Kasich:

As a customer of the Illuminating Company/First Energy in Cleveland, Ohio, I request that you deny the rate increase proposed by FirstEnergy. This rate increase imposes an unjustified burden on Ohio citizens, who are already under financial pressure due to the current state of Ohio's economy. The burden is unjustified because the rate increase is linked to continued use of outdated and inefficient coal-burning technology, and delays investment in current technology which includes more efficient combustion technology and renewable resource technology. Ohio can and must do better by its citizens by setting standards for decreased power plant emissions. My family cares about the conditions of its atmospheric and economic environment, and we expect the State Government to support the concerns and needs of its citizens. Please play your role as governor of our great state to block the proposed bailout of Ohio's old (and not venerable!) coal-burning power plants.

Dear Governor Kasich,

I am writing to you concerning FirstEnergy since I would be affect by any bailout.

I do understand the facilities are dated but to transfer the costs of any updating to the consumer is not good business. FirstEnergy has spent many dollars on advertising and naming rights to the stadium where the Browns play. This money (in the millions) could be spent better at updating their facilities to more energy efficient facilities which would benefit the consumer and the environment.

Please deny the rate increase to lock customers into buying power from Ohio's oldest and dirtiest coal plants. A bailout would only benefit utility shareholders and delays inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy.

Re: FirstEnergy Case #14-1297-EL-SSO

Dear Governor Kasich,

I am writing to request that you use whatever means available to you to support a denial of the requested rate increase by Duke Energy, AEP, and First Energy. As an educator, I note that we are continually fed arguments supporting choice and competition; yet, here are companies incapable of competing without artificial (i.e., government-protected) supports at the expense of Ohio's consumers. It is this contradictory, disingenuous, hypocritical "logic" that Ohio's middle class citizens, struggling to make a decent life for their families, find so frustrating and revolting. Ohioans are willing—eager, in fact—to pull their weight and do their fair share, but this does not mean propping up inefficient, polluting businesses which threaten our future well-being, all to further increase the obscene profits of owners whose lifestyles are far beyond the reach of the average Ohioan.

I have heard you pledge support for the working class, and I heard you a couple weeks ago on an NPR interview cite Matthew 35. Please, please put your money—or at least your political will—where your mouth is.

In relation to ^{case #} K-1297-EL-SSD,

This society needs to transfer into accountability for its actions. We must stop relying on what's convenient & what's available & seek to evolve into a society that not only claims belief in renewability & progress, but one that takes action & makes changes. Supporting coal energy is not aligned with such a society. We deserve more. If Nikola Tesla could develop renewable energy a century ago, then we are more than capable now.

Please be a supporter of evolution - of growth.

Dear Governor Kasich,

I'm writing as a taxpayer and a customer of FirstEnergy, to voice my objection to the plan proposed by FirstEnergy (case number: 14-1297-el-sso) and other utilities to raise rates in order to subsidize maintenance of their out-dated, environmentally unsound and clearly no longer cost-effective coal plants. Critics are rightly calling the plan, currently before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO), a "bailout" because the requested "Purchase Power Agreement" would force taxpayers to pay higher utilities fees in order to underwrite the renovation of plants OWNED and operated for profit by the utilities companies.

Coal is an environmentally destructive and outdated way of producing energy. It is only cheap in the short run -- as these proposals demonstrate, the long term costs of updating antiquated equipment, abating air pollution and mitigating contaminated water make coal extremely costly, not just in financial terms but in terms of public health and sustainability.

So, no. Taxpayers should not have to pay for FirstEnergy's plants -- as customers, we've been paying for the power all along, and the company's shareholders have profited from our business. FirstEnergy needs to pay for the upkeep of its equipment -- or better yet, spearhead the move to 21st century sustainable energy sources. Ohio utility energy efficiency programs have been very cost-effective, with net benefits to Ohio ratepayers already exceeding $1 billion.

While we're on the topic, Gov. Kasich, we need some executive leadership to bring the state in line with the rest of the country in terms of the pursuit of renewable energy sources. In June, 2014 the Ohio General Assembly passed a new law gutting the state's renewable energy and energy efficiency standards, a law which FirstEnergy fiercely lobbied legislators to pass.

Dear Governor Kasich,

I'm writing to voice my objection to the plan proposed by FirstEnergy (case number: 14-1297-el-sso) and other utilities to raise rates in order to subsidize maintenance of their out-dated, environmentally unsound and clearly no longer cost-effective coal plants. Critics are rightly calling the plan, currently before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO), a "bailout" because the requested "Purchase Power Agreement" would force taxpayers to pay higher utilities fees in order to underwrite the renovation of plants OWNED and operated for profit by the utilities companies.

Coal is an environmentally destructive and outdated way of producing energy. It is only cheap in the short run -- as these proposals demonstrate, the long term costs of updating antiquated equipment, abating air pollution and mitigating contaminated water make coal extremely costly, not just in financial terms but in terms of public health and sustainability.

RE: Case #14-1297-EL-SSO

Dear Governor Kasich,

I am writing this letter to express my disappointment and concern regarding Ohio's outdated, pollution-causing energy policy. As a father of two young girls, clean air and water are critical to their physical and neurological growth. Continuing to rely on coal is not only antiquated, it's poisoning our environment and delaying the usage of advanced methods for future energy production.

In addition, my energy bills are becoming more and more unsustainable for my household. This needs to cease, immediately, before more cuts are needed to put food on the table.

As a United States citizen, I expect my lawmakers to be on the cutting edge of technological advances, especially when it pertains to energy. Instead, we are dramatically lagging compared to other developed countries. We should be embarrassed and ashamed.

As a man with considerable power and influence in our great state of Ohio, I frankly expect more from you. Catering to utility shareholders should not be high on your list of responsibilities as a Governor . . . protecting the citizens of Ohio should be.

Respectfully,

Stephen P. Karl

These alternative sources will help to make our planet safer for future generations. We care about reducing toxic pollution and also saving money on our electric bills.

First of all I care about reducing toxic pollution and it needs to happen soon. I realize it is a huge problem to switch to cleaner energies but cannot be delayed. I believe that there are more health issues every year due to pollution.

I do not believe it is the responsibility of the government, taxpayers or users of energy to bail out old polluting technology. I don't want any more people put out of work but the companies have seen this coming and needed to make changes earlier. I would rather see funds toward helping new technology. Alternative Energy programs are now in so many Ohio colleges and that's a good sign.

There are many people who need the lowest rates possible just because of their income. Energy share is a great program to help these people but no one should have to select old technology that results in pollution just because they can't afford the alternative.

We are counting on our elected officials to be aware of these issues and to act to protect us and our children and their children. I respect all you have accomplished for us and I hope you will put this up there at the top of your list.

Dear Governor Kasich,

I am writing in reference to First Energy case # 14-1297-EL-SSO.

I was born and raised in Ohio, and, after living overseas for almost a decade, I have come back to Ohio to raise my children. I am frustrated and upset by our country and our state's lack of effort to promote sustainable green energy technologies. I am angered by our denial of global warming, and our insistence on using outdated, dirty, unsustainable means of deriving energy simply because the vested interests have money and can scream louder.

My husband, children and I truly care about reducing toxic pollution, and saving money on our electric bills. I humbly but firmly ask that you please DENY the rate increase currently proposed to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's coal plants. They are old, dirty, and should NOT be bailed out.

We pay our bill to The Illuminating Company. We are always on time with payments, and always willing to contribute extra money to support investment in green technologies. However, we are NOT willing to bail out old, outdated technology that pollutes the air, and only benefits utility shareholders. This sort of situation only delays the inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy.

The American way has always been forward thinking. Always pioneering. Always keeping our eyes on the horizon, and adapting, changing and inventing technologies to fit in a new era. It's time we Ohioans start modeling this behavior for the rest of the country, not hiding behind outdated technology and clinging sadly to the past.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Governor,

FirstEnergy 14-1297-EL-SSO

It has been brought to my attention that there will be large rate increases in order to keep the dirty coal plants producing electricity. What is the point in keeping these plants polluting the environment when alternative measures should be put into place to provide electricity?

It is very important that Ohio produce clean electricity for all their citizens at a fair rate. I believe that my rates should be for the electricity that I use, not to continue supporting outdated coal plants.

I pay for my electricity through The Illuminating Company and that electricity should be produced in an efficient clean way, so that I can continue breathing the air and be healthy. A bailout of these environmental polluting coal plants will not result in clean air and fair electrical costs.

I am writing as a concerned citizen, mother, and community member to strongly urge that the proposed rate currently under review (which would lock customers in to purchasing power from Ohio coal plants) be rejected. Conversely, I would also urge that investments in clean, renewable energy forms be given immediate priority so that both short and long-term impacts on the health and well-being of Ohio citizens, land and water sources be minimized.

Respectfully yours,

Please don't pass case # 14-1297-E 2-SSO for First Energy. I attend school in Ohio and really care about having healthy, nontoxic air to breathe. Also, being a college student, I live paycheck to paycheck. I really wouldn't be able to afford a decent place to live if cost of electricity were to go up significantly. A bail out of old, polluting technology will only benefit utility shareholders and delays inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy. Please deny the use of old coal ~~plants~~ plants and don't corner the people into being stuck in a rate increase.

Dear Rex,

This is in regards to case # 14-1097-EH-SO.

I am writing to you to urge you to stop the first energy bailout.

First let me say that coal is an antiquated resource that the US and many other countries have pursued in its attempt to provide cheap and efficient energy. I did use the word "antiquated". What is because we now have the technology that allows the US to rectify some of the mistakes made by previous generations. Wind and hydroelectric energy sources are a much cleaner and will be more beneficial to the and future generations.

Coal and the production of energy from coal, is a dirty, filthy method to produce energy. So why not use other technologies for energy and to most importantly reduce pollution
While reading all the articles and literature about the proposed
"bailout", I think it's horrible

Most consumers are already paying high rates why would you want to pay more? So no I don't agree with any rate increases or shifting of costs. On the fact that I may still have to pay it even if I choose a different provider. I say yes to using other resources new technology to achieve a goal of reducing pollution and most importantly to reduce costs. They are just lining their pockets with our money and we have to suffer.

Thank you

Re: First Energy 14-1297-EL-SSO

Dear PUCO,

I am writing you with regard to the bailout of the state's outdated coal plants. I don't know about how you feel, but I for one am tired of hearing the word "bailout". Wall street sold the fed on a bailout relating to mortgage backed securities that caused the collapse of the housing market. The banks stuck the American Taxpayer with a few trillion dollars and this is on top of all the money they made from selling the securities, credit default swaps, CDO's, etc.

I am not naive, and understand that the banks have immense political power and money to influence legislation. The energy companies such as First Energy and the others that have teamed up with possess the same type of power. And just like the banks, they're deep pockets can influence legislation to their benefit. The consumers, like my family, and friends will end up footing the bill. It's past the point of ridiculous. Here's a suggestion, why not have the energy companies invest their OWN capital to upgrade their facilities? Our electricity provider is the Illuminating Company, if the bailout goes through, it will increase our bill even more. The answer is simple, tell the Energy Companies to invest their own money to upgrade their infrastructure or go borrow the money from a bank, issue bonds to investors, etc. This let's just get the money from the consumers or taxpayers has to end.

Sincerely yours,

Drew Thompson

We do not support the bailout of the states outdated coal plants. A bailout of old, polluting technology only benefits the utility shareholders and stifles the progression and investment in efficient and renewable energy.

Please deny the increase to lock consumer's into buying power from Ohio's oldest coal plants. The price of energy from these providers is already high and an increase for something that should be taken care of by the owners of those plants would only make it harder for working families who pay their bills, fix their homes, yards, and neighborhoods with their own money would only make it harder on us.

Just like we perform maintenance on our properties, they should do the same, out of their pockets.

To Whom It May Concern,

Please be advised that I am 100 percent against any type of rate increase for the bailout of old decrepit mis- managed power plants. Even though it is a public utility, I do not believe the customers/ consumers should subsidize these utilities requested rate increases of which they should have kept efficient clean practices.

Nuclear power is and should be a better option.

Dear Members of the PUCO,

I am writing this letter to urge you to deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest and dirtiest coal plants. I pay my electric bill to First Energy and I care about this issue because Ohio has an old power infrastructure which could affect my grandchildren. Some of these coal plants were built and put into service before I was born.

My family and I care about reducing toxic pollution and saving money on our electric bills. A bailout of old, polluting technology only benefits utility shareholders, and it delays inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy. Our power grid is susceptible to outages, and First Energy has done little to upgrade it. In 2009, we spent Christmas Day without power, because the wind knocked down tree branches above power lines. This is not a new issue to First Energy which was responsible for the Northeast blackout of 2003. If we allow First Energy to increase rates for these old coal plants, they will have no incentive to invest in more efficient and renewable energy.

Sincerely,

Dear Governor Kasich:

I am writing to ask you to oppose the proposed bailout of First Energy. They are requesting that the PUCO allow them to raise consumer electric rates to cover the costs of their outdated and dirty coal plants.

We had to bail them out in 1999. We pay the highest electric rates in the state in Northeast Ohio, and some of the highest in the country. However, FirstEnergy had $20 million to squander for the naming rights for a football stadium, for what purpose I cannot guess. They advertise on radio and television when they have no competition in most of the markets they serve. They seem to have plenty of money to throw around. I am asking you to stop them from helping themselves to any more of ours.

Very truly yours,

John A. Clough

Global warming is real and caused by humans, from our use of fossil fuels. As a voter, I'm very against the proposed rate hike to our electric rates as it bails out out dated, polluting energy sources. Rip off the bandaid and force us to begin to use Renewable energy sources - that's where our investing should be.

Dear Governor:

Please deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest coal plants.

My family and I care about reducing toxic pollution and saving money on our electric bills.

A bailout of old, polluting technology only benefits utility shareholders and delays inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy.

Thank you,

Dear PUCO,

My family and I care about reducing toxic pollution and saving money on our electric bills.

I know that our coal fired plants produce much of our power and are outdated and big polluting machines. What are our alternatives?

Clean energy should be the goal for the future. But not at expense of the people. We need a balance where the cost should not outweigh the benefit. Develop ways of producing energy that is reasonable and cost-effective.

Thank you,

First Energy Case No. 14-1297-EL-SSO

To whom it may concern, this letter is to address the topic of Ohio's air quality. The outdated coal plants in Ohio need to be phased out of use, not bailed out at the expense of Ohio's taxpayers. There are many alternatives to the use of coal and it is time to utilize these technologies. The people of Ohio choose to live in this beautiful state and its citizens deserve a quality of life afforded by clean air.

Sincerely,

Keely Minter

RE: STATE SUPPORT FOR OUTDATED COAL PLANTS
FIRST ENERGY CASE #14-1297-EL-SSO

Dear PUCO,

I am a bill-paying First Energy customer, and oppose the rate increase that locks consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest and dirtiest coal plants. We are at a cross-roads in our state, where we either hang on to relics from our industrial past or set a standard that encourages systems that can serve us for the long-term future.

I have two small children, and want to provide them with a path of reduced pollution as well as sound fiscal responsibility. Supporting out dated systems just to benefit utility shareholders in the short term and delays investment in a more beneficial and efficient approach does not do this. Please deny the rate increase that takes a step backwards, rather than setting a standard that moves Ohio forward.

RE: Case Number 14-1297-EL-SSO

To Whom It May Concern:

My husband, Paul, and I were just visited by Kevin who is visiting here from Texas to work with the Ohio Citizen Organization. Normally we do not invite people into our homes to discuss political issues, but she is definitely someone who we found passionate about the problem we as consumers are facing in Ohio.

We are firm believers that the state should not stand for a bailout of the outdated coal plants. In supporting PUCO, it is our hope that you will deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from the oldest, and dirtiest coal plants. We care about reducing toxic pollution and, of course, saving money on our electric bills. We are tired of seeing our money being wasted on old technology that delays inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy which I hope one day to see.

I hope that this note gets into the hands of someone who can make a difference in the way Ohio thinks about our future.

Sincerely,

Nancy Sanders

Re: Case #14-1297-EL-SS

To Whom It May Concern:

This is just a short note to let you know that I am opposed to bailing out Ohio's aging & outdated coal plants. If we could channel our resources into solar & wind sources, we would all be breathing much easier.

As a senior citizen, chronically short of funds, I definitely do not want to see a rate increase that would be earmarked for continuing obsolete coal plants!

Very truly yours,
Sandra M. Jones

Dear
PUCO,

Clean air is very important to my family. We do not agree with a bailout for dirty coal plants that increase the pollution around us. Also, it is unfair to put the burden of a rate increase on to consumers for something they don't support.
