To whom it may concern:

Dear Sirs,

I am writing about a rate increase that would lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest dirtiest coal plants. I pay my bills and I care about this issue because I want toxic pollution reduced for the sake of my family's health. Our air is being polluted. A bailout of polluting technology only benefits the utility shareholders-not the regular taxpayers and billpayers. This also delays investment in more efficient and renewable energy sources. Please reconsider bailing out Ohio's outdated coal plants. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Park

RE: First Energy 13-1297-EL-SSO

Gentlemen:

I am writing concerning the proposed action by PUCO to give First Energy and other utilities a "pass" on the need to remove polluting, coal-fired power plants from production.

As I am sure you know, utilizing coal as an energy source significantly adds to the carbon pollution of the atmosphere.

I have attempted to do my small part in reducing this pollution by purchasing my electricity through a sustainable producer, Arcadia Power. I would find it particularly offensive to have my small contribution undone by the proposed "Purchase Power Agreement" that would obligate me to pay increased utility rates if First Energy is given this "pass." These coal-fired plants are no longer environmentally, or economically viable. If I must pay higher utility rates, I would expect this to be due to an increase in the use of alternative energy sources – not more of the "same old, same old."

We as a society have put off these decisions far too long. It is time that we take action to reduce the damage to our environment rather than continuing to kick the can down the road.

I urge you to deny First Energy its request to raise energy costs to maintain a fuel source that has limited utility in today's environment.

Sincerely,

To the PUCO:

I am writing today to implore you to deny permission to First Energy, Duke Energy and AEP to raise consumer rates to cover the costs of their outdated plants. As the commission must know these plants are well beyond their prime and are terrible polluters, no more delaying what is inevitable. They must invest in more efficient and renewable energy !!

The consumer should not have to foot the bill for this short sighted plan.

Consumers have already paid billions to the utilities when they transitioned to deregulated power plants.

Now that there is so much excellent technology ~~available~~ available to cut costs and dramatically reduce pollution it is nothing short of a crime to prop up these ~~old~~ polluters.

We the consumers depend on the PUCO to protect us and the environment. I hope I can ~~be~~ count on the commission.

To Whom It May Concern:

As an Ohio resident and ratepayer to FirstEnergy, I am writing in opposition to the rate proposal that FirstEnergy Corp. and its business partners have filed with PUCO. Their proposed plan will raise consumer energy rates, while unfairly shielding outdated and inefficient power plants (Davis-Besse in Oak Harbor, WH Sammis, in Stratton, and others) from competitive pressures in the deregulated energy market.

If these plants are unable to generate energy that can be sold profitably on the free marketplace, then FirstEnergy and its partners do not deserve a ratepayer-funded bailout to keep them running. Please vote against their rate proposal. Thank you for your consideration.

Dear PUCO,

It is come to my attention that First Energy has filed a proposal to you to raise consumer rates in order to continue using outdated and inefficient coal plants. I am writing to ask you to deny their proposal. These plants are Ohio's dirtiest and oldest. Consumers should not be forced to buy power from them. If our rates are to increase, surely it should be in order to develop renewable energy sources.

I want to stress my point that it is past time that our old, inefficient, and hazardous coal fueled power plants either be replaced by cleaner and more efficient methods or at the least with the absolute latest in clean coal technologies. The hardest thing to do is usually the right thing. Its time for a change in the "right" direction and to no longer be part of the problem. Bailing out people who don't make responsible decisions affecting everyone's health is setting a very low standard for all. Accountability of this issue will discourage many others from repeating this offense and encourage better decision making with consequences being a motivator. To whom it may concern,

Please deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest dirtiest coal plants. Our environment suffers immensely from pollution as is and any way to reduce this pollution, especially when it also saves consumers money, should be considered. There are many evolving technological advances happening every day, so I am sure you could find other options to take. Thank you for your time.

To Whom It May Concern,

My family was recently made aware of the fact that we as consumers are to be made responsible for the bad business decisions of FirstEnergy and other companies. As if it weren't bad enough that we were being made financial responsible for their mistakes, the funds will be used to put some duct tape on the aging and outdated facilities of these companies. I have a 4 month old son who, in these times, is hard enough to support without someone else taking money out of our pockets. Not to mention the environmental impact it will have on him and his generation. Maybe instead of using their funds to buy naming rights to stadiums they should have invested in better, clean energy facilities. You can say that the $6 million spent on Cleveland Browns Stadium is a drop in the bucket compared to the $1 billion you need. But to my family and everyone I know that is considered an unreal amount. Certainly there were better ways to use those funds. My family will not stand aside while PUCO forces this bailout on the people of Ohio.

I am horrified to think that you would approve a rate increase to subsidize First Energy's operation of coal-fired power plants. If First Energy is so strapped for revenue, why did they just shell out 100 million dollars to put their name on a stadium?

I agree that these plants are outdated and inefficient, but why does the cost have to be borne on the backs of its customers to repair and replace them? First Energy should be forced to live on a budget as we all do and get by with what they have. Perhaps the money for naming rights should have been invested in new ways to generate power so these coal plants can be shuttered for good.

it is time that they do their part and start investing in the future. A future without coal burning power plants.

Please deny the rate increase to local consumers into Dayton, Rover from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest coal plants. We as consumers should not be forced to bail out these companies that are unwilling to update their facilities. If these plants are so out of date that they cannot sell the energy at a competitive rate, they should not be able to force people to pay the higher rate they should invest in more efficient technology, and hopefully with an investment into more efficient technology they can reduce the amount of pollution they are creating.

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to express my concern about the "Purchase Power Agreement" proposed by Duke Energy, AEP, and First Energy.

I pay my energy bill to the Illuminating Company. Coal is a polluting energy source, and I am very concerned that the money from the increased consumer rates would be used to cover the costs of outdated and inefficient coal plants which would otherwise be retired.

As a resident of the state of Ohio, I am very supportive of our state moving toward a renewable energy solution. A bailout of old, polluting technology only benefits utility shareholders and delays inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy.

Please deny this rate increase, which would lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest coal plants.

A Bailout to the coal plants would be another stupendous waste of money ~~that~~ from the energy company. The money spent on these insufficient coal burning power plants, could be spent on developing research for cleaner more efficient forms of energy production. It could even be spent on putting up a more cost effective power plant. ~~The~~

~~Bills~~

The Bills we pay we pay because we are forced to by an omnipresent authority figure, the government, or we don't get our basic human needs. If we don't pay the power bill we don't get heat electricity to cook food and just things you need on a day to day basis to survive. If this Bailout goes thru the cost of living will increase because bills will be higher and poverty will rampant thru Ohio.

Air quality is a big issue for the present and future. People will develop breathing issues at a younger ~~age~~ and younger age. Coal is harmful to humans and animals in so many ways. This bailout should not be supported. It is criminal and morally wrong.

Robert Martin

I pay my bill to Ohio Edison and I think it would serve the public better to devise alternative means of generating electric. I would rather you did not let the suppliers hike rates for the purpose of buying politicians so they can continue in the current filthy polluting fashion. Or for bailing them out for improving the junky outdated plants they have now.
