Dear PUCO:

I am a concerned citizen writing to you about the bailout of coal plants in Ohio (14-1297-EL-SSO.)

Please do not make Ohio citizens pay for dirty air! I'm very concerned about toxic pollution and saving money on my electric bill.

A bailout of old, fossil-fuel burning coal plants only delays the inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy.

As an American citizen, a citizen of a first-world nation, I feel that our goal should be to move forward in regards to clean energy. A rate increase would do the opposite: trap consumers, citizens of America, into using inefficient, outdated energy sources and ultimately killing our vital environment. This is why a rate increase is a big mistake for the citizens of Ohio.

Any rate increase to require consumers to support old, polluting, unsafe and health damaging coal plants is not in the best interest of the citizens of Ohio. This family has had generations that suffered with asthma and other respiratory illnesses from breathing the air polluted by these old and dirty coal fired plants that produce electric power in the Cleveland area. is The Illuminating Co. These companies must not be allowed to postpone the new technology that would allow us to have safe renewable energy. The citizens deserve to be served by the PUCCO. Please deny this rate increase!

To PUCO:

Please deny the current rate hike requested by Duke Energy, AEP and First Energy. This rate hike passes on costs to consumers (some of whom will not be direct recipients of the power). It is essentially a bailout to the utility companies. The larger issue is that these power plants are now past their prime and the bailout essentially supports these companies in delaying investment in more efficient and renewable energy sources.

For the benefit of our families in the future, we should be researching and developing clean energy sources that are viable for the long term. Approving this request is an expensive Band-Aid that does not address our long term energy infrastructure needs.

I appreciate your attention to these concerns.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is in regards to FirstEnergy case number 14-1297-EL-SSO.

The health of my family is of the most importance to me. I am a widowed mother of two small children – my husband died of cancer 6 years ago at the young age of 43, and sometimes I wonder if his cancer was due to environmental issues. For these obvious concerns, I care about reducing toxic pollution for my two daughters, ages 10 and 7 -- and for me, their surviving parent.

Please stop the FirstEnergy bailout. Besides the health concerns, which again are paramount to me, saving money on electric bills are important as well. Also, a bailout of old, polluting technology only benefits utility shareholders and delays inevitable investment in efficiency and renewable energy.

Thank you for the consideration of reading my letter.

Regarding the above mentioned case with FirstEngery, please be advised that as an Ohio taxpayer and utility consumer, I am against the bailout of the involved energy companies and their request to raise consumer rates. In an effort to update their antiquated, polluting technology, it is disturbing that these energy companies will be forcing consumers to pay more for their utilities while shareholders stand to benefit. I urge you to not to allow the energy companies pass the cost of their outdated plants to consumers.

To the members of PUC,

Please do not accept the proposal for case # 14-1297-EL-EX from First Energy. I feel that it is wrong to raise rates and use the profits to cover costs of outdated and inefficient coal plants. If they are not working then don't utilize them and change to sustainable and renewable energies. We need to start investing in our future and utilize renewable energy. Plus the impact this would have on an already high bill for so many would be difficult.

Please don't do the rate increase locking consumers into buying non-renewable power.

I think it is extremely important for everyone to have a deep passion and concern about the toxic pollution that is being released into our atmosphere. It should cause even more concern when that pollution can be prevented and could also help keep the costs down for families like mine. We should be putting time, money and effort into creating more efficient ways to harness and use renewable energy. I hope that you take into consideration the thoughts of the people that you govern.

Thank You,

Please do not allow bailouts of old coal burning power plants when there are so many alternative technologies. We live & work very close to one. Our health & that of our friends and neighbors is a concern. Moving is not an option.

PUCO

Please look carefully into First Energy's request case # 14-1297-EL-550. I know the company is investing in upgrading facilities, however, they need to look as well at where they are purchasing power. Out dated facilities pollute our environment and so investment needs to be made in to alternative sources of power.

Thank you for your consideration into the companies request that will cause those of us on fixed incomes to shoulder another burden.

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to ask that you deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest coal plants.

My family and I care about reducing toxic pollution and saving money on our electric bills.

However, we do not want a bailout of old polluting technology that only benefits those shareholders and results in the delay of efficiency and renewable energy.

To Whom It May Concern:

I am opposed to the proposed rate increases by First Energy and PUCO. Any investment in maintaining Ohio's aging, inefficient power plants is irresponsible from an environmental perspective. Passing these costs to consumers is wrong from an ethical perspective. Diverting any money from investments in renewable energy is just plain unconscionable.

Until the passage of SB 310, Ohio was seeing significant growth in jobs and profits from the clean energy industry. This growth was good for our state economy. And it was good for our children's and grandchildren's future. I care about regaining the growth we were experiencing. Please deny this proposed rate increase and send the message that investments should be made in clean, renewable energy.

First Energy case #

14-1297-EL-550

Dear Public Utilities Commission of Ohio,

I am writing in regards to the decision to raise energy prices to the common public. I am writing to ask that you please consider denying the rate increase to lock people like me into buying power from Ohio's dirtiest coal plants. We are not helping our planet out by encouraging practices that pollute the air. My family and I really care about reducing toxic pollution and helping the environment. I would love for my children to grow up in a world where they can be safe and one day raise a family of their own.

I pay my electric bill each month on time and would like to know that the money I am paying for electric isn't going towards a company that is ruining the air you and I breathe each day. I also care about saving money as well as jobs are hard to find and money is tight with increasing prices on everything else. It would be nice to know that electricity was a price I could count on to stay the same each month when budgeting bills.

A bailout of old, polluting technology only seems to benefit the shareholders and not really the consumer. It also delays the inevitable investment in renewable energy and efficiency.

Please reconsider your decision and think about your own family. The air they breathe will also be affected by this decision. They can have healthier air to breathe or dirty air to fill their lungs with.

Thank you for your time in reading this letter.

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to you regarding FirstEnergy's request for a rate increase, case number 14-1297-EL-SSO. Please deny this rate increase. My wife and I are deeply concerned about reducing pollution and saving money on our electric bills. This rate increase will encourage FirstEnergy to continue using this highly polluting, out dated technology. We are very concerned about the plant we are leaving to our granddaughters. We all have to start somewhere in moving our state to be a leader in cleaner alternative sources of energy.

Sincerely,

Re: 14-1297-EL-880

I've been an Ohio resident for six years - I moved here to attend college and loved it so much I couldn't leave. I served the state of Ohio as an AmeriCorps volunteer. I work, eat, vote, and pay taxes here. I am opposed to a bailout of the state's outdated coal plants. The education I received at one of Ohio's oldest colleges included lessons on environmental stewardship and community action. Continued support for the coal industry instead of clean, renewable energy is not good for the beautiful state of Ohio, for the health of citizens, or for the financial stability of taxpayers, ratepayers, and business owners. Ohio can do better than coal.

My family and I care about reducing toxin pollution and saving money on our electric bills. My husband had a stroke almost a year ago and we have struggled financially. Therefore, we don't agree with the increase of rates. Also, we have always cared about the environment and think it is wrong to bailout old polluting technology. Ohio should invest in efficient and renewable energy.
