Dear PUCO:

The purpose of this letter is to express my concerns to you regarding the requests made the by FirstEnergy to raise consumer rates in order to improve their outdated plants. I feel strongly that this request, if approved, will lead to delays in investments in the more efficient and renewable energy that will benefit our state in the long run.

It is important to me and my family that the Utilities Commission make a more concerted effort to reduce toxic pollution and be responsible for the future of our environment as opposed to spending more money on a utility provider which pollutes our air.

Please consider our request and deny FirstEnergy's petition for rate increases.

Re: case number First Energy 14-1297-EL-SSO

I am writing to urge you to deny FirstEnergy's proposal for permission to raise consumer rates and use the profits to cover costs of their outdated power plants. This is a bailout request. Ohioans would be locked into these rates. As a taxpayer and voter, I do not support this action. I want clean, efficient, renewable energy in my community and Ohio. This proposal, if approved, delays the development of new energy sources. This proposal does not benefit Ohioans, only the utility companies.

Dear Commissioners,

It has come to my attention that FirstEnergy is asking for another rate increase to support their outdated and dirty power plants. Additionally, all users of electricity would be forced to pay this increase regardless of their chosen supplier. It seems that the consumers lose in this deal and the stockholders win. I don't approve of that scenario. Please vote to deny their rate increase and thereby vote for reducing toxic pollution.

I care about the rights of the people of Ohio. I wonder if the request of FirstEnergy to increase rates by a non-bypassable charge on their electric bills to allow the utility to continue to operate older power plants is really in their best interest. This forced charge does not appear to be in line with the idea of a free-market economy that was established by the deregulation of these power plants. The people of Ohio have the right to choose the lowest price provider of electric power, but this FirstEnergy request seems to subvert it.

To Whom It May Concern:

I urgently plead that you please deny FirstEnergy, Ref. (14-1297-EL-SSO), the rate increase request that would lock residents of this state into buying their power from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest, and outdated coal burning plants. FirstEnergy has had 15yrs to update or build new, more efficient plants and chose not to. I know there are cost to operating these plants, but for FirstEnergy to ask the consumers to pay more to cover the cost of outdated plants without any guarantees of improvement from the current toxic pollution these plants produce, is unfair to the tax payers, because it only benefits shareholders in FirstEnergy, not the consumers.

FirstEnergy should have invested in its future. They should not be allowed to rely on consumers to bail them out from their poor business decisions. It's time we look forward and start investing in more efficient, and renewable energy sources. Not continually wasting monies in outdated plants. Thank you for your time.
