COMMENT DESCRIPTION:

DP&L requests rate hike article in newspaper. Are you Kidding me! They're claiming storm damage and unforeseen regulations is the reason. I don't buy it for a minute! We've had a rather mild year temperaturewise. There's been relatively few storms and the ones we've had were mild. Plus their operational costs are going down due to the dropping gas prices. As for "unforeseen regulations" as they put it is just ridiculous. What was all that deregulation in the 1990s about, huh? I was and am opposed to utility that deregulation. After which the rates went up. In short I oppose any rate hikes period.
