Why is this Duke proposed pipeline an issue? Why would the state allow something like this to be put in a highly populated area. Ohio does not need to have a pipeline large enough to service 2 million people when the state only has 470,000 potential customers. Are you asking use to live in danger to help get gas to those in other states? We DO NOT want to send our kids to school and live in a community that is part of the blast zone. Our community has just had a lot of recent growth, now it may become stunted with all of us living in fear and with property values dropping, etc. I for one, will be on the hunt for a new home outside of the pipeline radius if this goes through. It is ridiculous that this is even being considered at it's current route. It needs to be in an unpopulated area.
