COMMENT DESCRIPTION:

I am writing to express opposition to the proposed Duke Central Corridor Gas Pipeline Project. These gas lines are proposed to run through densely populated residential and commercial areas in the City of Cincinnati, as well as outlying communities. The pipeline would run near homes, businesses, schools, places of worship, and hospitals. After what happened with a similar gas pipeline in San Bruno, pipelines of this kind should be banned in residential and densely populated areas within the state of Ohio. My home is right on the edge of a "blast zone", which could lower my property value significantly. For the safety of the thousands of people who could be affected if anything were to go wrong with the proposed pipeline, and for property values and businesses in our communities to thrive, I am asking that Duke's proposed Central Corridor Gas Pipeline Project be rejected by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. Thank you, Katie Lippard
