Re: 16-0253-GA_B LX The proposed high pressure pipeline through areas of high residency, schools and business is a bad idea. As someone who has worked both in commercial banking and a regulatory agency, I have working knowledge of Risk Management. The risks in the financial industry were primarily financial and did not put human lives at risk. The proposed pipeline puts lives at risk primarily for the financial benefit of shareholders. Although there may be long term benefits to consumers of a high pressure pipeline, I for one, support a safer route, even if it means higher cost. Look to Flint Michigan for a perfect example of short term thinking. Those who vote in favor of the pipeline, regardless of their positions will be held accountable.
