COMMENT DESCRIPTION:

This letter concerns OPSB case number 16-0253-GA-BTX. I am very much against the pipeline. This high pressure line goes past many homes in a very populated area, including my home of over 40 years. How is Duke addressing venting and flaring of natural gas? When I have asked Duke as to where venting will be placed and how it will effect the people and the environment , they will not give a direct answer and refer me from one person to another. Needless to say this does not help or make me feel any safer. If the alternate plan is used my home will no longer be mine. I will pay property taxes for my front yard and part of my living room and bedroom, which Duke will have an easement on. I cannot use that property without their approval. How can you consider using a route that takes away the use of my and other peoples homes? We will lose the use of our front yard , be forced to accept what ever products/poisons Duke applies to our ground and we will pay with property taxes, higher insurance, lower property value and the constant threat of being vaporized if there is an explosion. How can Duke consider treating anyone or anything in this manner? Maybe the corporate officers of Duke Energy would like to purchase my home and live here with all these lovely problems they are creating. Please consider people over corporate profit.
