APPLICATION FOR REHEARING BY THE OFFICE OF THE OHIO CONSUMERS' COUNSEL

In this case the FirstEnergy utilities¹ are collecting charges from customers, on an accelerated basis, for certain distribution related investment, through the Delivery Capital Recovery ("DCR") Rider.² The DCR Rider was first approved as a single issue ratemaking provision in the FirstEnergy utilities' second electric security plan proceeding.³ This rider charge to customers is one of a myriad of other add-on charges called "riders" allowed under an electric security plan.⁴ In this proceeding, the PUCO will be ruling on whether the 2017 charges that have been collected by FirstEnergy are reasonable.⁵

The Office of the Ohio Consumers' Counsel ("OCC") files this application for rehearing to bring clarity and transparency to the audit process. Granting OCC's application for rehearing will allow OCC, and any other intervening parties, to review the forthcoming draft audit report(s) in this proceeding as well as any prior drafts of the audit report(s) and related communications. Specifically, the OCC seeks rehearing of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio's ("PUCO") December 6, 2017 Entry ("December 6 Entry") that selected Blue Ridge Consulting Services, Inc. ("Blue Ridge") as the independent auditor in this proceeding.

The December 6 Entry was unreasonable and unlawful in the following respects:

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. 1: The PUCO erred when it unreasonably and unlawfully failed to explicitly find that the draft audit report(s) shall be provided to all parties at the same time and that comments on the draft report(s) provided by any party are discoverable.

The reasons in support of this application for rehearing are set forth in the accompanying memorandum in support. The PUCO should grant rehearing and abrogate its Entry as requested by OCC.

Respectfully submitted,

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF OHIO

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT

I. INTRODUCTION

In its November 1, 2017 Entry, the PUCO ordered its Staff to issue a request for proposal for a third party to audit FirstEnergy's DCR Rider. The PUCO ordered the third-party auditor to provide to the PUCO Staff both a draft audit report and final audit report. The Entry failed to explicitly find that the draft audit report(s) shall be provided to all intervening parties at the same time as the PUCO Staff and that comments on the draft audit report(s) are discoverable. OCC filed an application for rehearing on the November 1, 2017 Entry.

The December 6 Entry selected Blue Ridge as the independent auditor in this proceeding. Yet, the Entry still failed to find that the draft audit report(s) will be provided to all parties at the same time and that comments on the audit report(s) are discoverable. Not allowing parties equal access to the draft audit report is unreasonable and contrary to legal precedent. Further, the OCC, who has the statutory authority to represent the residential customers of FirstEnergy who are being charged through the DCR, should be entitled to review the draft audit report(s) and seek discovery of comments made on the draft audit report(s).

II. ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. 1: The PUCO erred when it unreasonably and unlawfully failed to find that the draft audit report(s) shall be provided to all parties at the same time and that comments on the draft report provided by any party are discoverable.

The December 6 Entry is unreasonable and unlawful because it failed to find that the draft audit report(s) shall be provided to all intervening parties and that comments on the draft audit report(s) is/are information that is subject to discovery by intervening parties. Under past PUCO rulings, PUCO rules, Ohio law, and the PUCO Entry in this proceeding, there can be no doubt that the draft audit report, prior versions of the draft audit report, and related communications are relevant to this proceeding and should be made available to all parties.

The PUCO has already declared these documents to be relevant in this case. In its November 1, 2017, Entry the PUCO ordered its Staff to issue a Request for Proposals ("RFP") regarding an audit of FirstEnergy's DCR Rider. The RFP also contemplated the creation of at least two associated documents: (1) a draft report of the auditor's findings;

⁶ See In the Matter of the Application of the Fuel Adjustment Clauses for Columbus Southern Power Company and Ohio Power Company and Related Matters, Case Nos. 11-5906-EL-FAC, et al., Entry (February 3, 2016) (PUCO granted an OCC public records request and released a draft audit report and related communications to OCC).

⁸ See R.C. 4903.082 (stating that "[a]ll parties and intervenors shall be granted ample rights of discovery" and that the PUCO should ensure that all parties are allowed "full and reasonable discovery"); Ohio Civ. R. 26(B) (this rule has been liberally construed to allow for broad discovery of any unprivileged matter relevant to the subject matter of the pending proceeding. See Ohio Consumers' Counsel v. Pub. Util. Comm. (2006), 111 Ohio St.3d 300, P 83, citing to Moskovitz v. ML Sinai Med. Ctr. (1994), 69 Ohio St.3d 638, 661 and Disciplinary Counsel v. O'Neill (1996), 75 Ohio St.3d 1479).

and (2) a final report of the auditor's findings.¹⁰ Thus, these documents are relevant to the proceeding. And, if the documents are relevant, then drafts of and communications regarding the documents are relevant as well.

Further, the documents relate to the very heart of the case and intervenors need this information in order to meaningfully participate in the proceeding. This proceeding involves the amount that FirstEnergy's customers pay for electric distribution service through the DCR Rider. The proceeding is intended for an independent auditor to analyze and attest to the accuracy and reasonableness of FirstEnergy's DCR Rider and memorialize its findings in an audit report. The audit will also analyze whether the DCR Rider complies with the PUCO's Opinion and Order that authorized the latest version of the DCR Rider. Thus, the audit report is essential and relevant to the PUCO's determination in this case.

Examining the draft audit report(s) will enable intervenors to determine whether and how any conclusions, results, or recommendations have changed between the issuance of any drafts and the final report. In particular, intervenors should be aware of any conclusions, results, or recommendations that were in the draft report but not in the final report so the reasons why they were excluded can be examined. This information will enable intervenors to assess the justness and reasonableness of the auditor's conclusions in its final report. And, it will inform intervenors as to whether the audit process is truly an independent process, as the PUCO intended. This is especially needed where the auditor is not subject to discovery that is otherwise permitted between and among parties to a PUCO proceeding. Further, allowing parties access to the draft audit report(s) will produce more informed comments from the intervenors, which will only help to develop a more complete and informed record for the PUCO.

Despite the clear legal standards and precedent above, another Ohio utility recently denied OCC access to draft audit reports, and any related communications, that was requested by OCC from the utility through a timely and proper discovery request. The utility objected to OCC's discovery request on the grounds that the RFP in the PUCO Entry does not explicitly state that draft audit reports, and related communications/comments, are discoverable documents. While, OCC has received the draft audit report through a public records request, it has still not received any other drafts of the audit report or any related communications. On October 31, 2017, OCC filed a motion to compel the discovery responses, which, at the time this pleading was filed, is still pending. OCC requests that the PUCO not allow for this case to head down a similar path.

The draft audit report(s) and related communications in this case are relevant information and denying parties access to the evidence would be unreasonable and contrary to legal precedent. Accordingly, OCC's request for rehearing should be granted.

III. CONCLUSION

The PUCO should grant rehearing as requested by the OCC and order that the draft audit report(s) shall be provided to every intervening party and comments on the draft audit report(s) may be released to any intervening party that properly and timely requests the comments through discovery. This will ensure a transparent process for consumers who are paying millions of dollars in charges under the FirstEnergy DCR Rider.
