MOTION TO COMPEL THE FIRSTENERGY UTILITIES TO ANSWER DISCOVERY
BY
OFFICE OF THE OHIO CONSUMERS' COUNSEL

The new public relations from FirstEnergy is “fostering trust and transparency at all levels.”¹ Those are empty words when it comes to the FirstEnergy Utilities’ refusal to answer investigatory questions from the state’s consumer advocate, OCC. And that brings us to this Motion to Compel the FirstEnergy Utilities to Answer Discovery.

This case was already important for consumer protection when opened a few years ago. Unfortunately for the FirstEnergy Utilities’ two million consumers, not much has happened in the case. But our filing of investigatory motions on September 8th last year reflected the case’s significance regarding the revelation of the FirstEnergy/House Bill 6 scandal. U.S. Attorney David Devillers described that scandal as "likely the largest bribery, money laundering scheme ever perpetrated against the people of the state of Ohio.”²

In 2017, in this case, the PUCO ordered Sage Management Consultants, LLC. (“Sage”) to perform an audit of FirstEnergy’s compliance with the Ohio’s corporate separation law and PUCO rules.³ In at least one instance, Sage found that FirstEnergy’s corporate structure was “highly inappropriate” because it combined competitive and noncompetitive functions into the same shared services organization, supervised by its Senior Vice President of Marketing and Branding.⁴

Against this backdrop, the FirstEnergy Utilities have refused to produce the information OCC requested, alleging that OCC’s discovery is “premature” and no discovery may be taken prior to the issuance of an audit report (which is not scheduled to be completed until June 2021). The FirstEnergy Utilities are using an old utility strategy of distraction and delay, nearly forty years after (and despite) the legislature’s discovery reform statute, R.C. 4903.082. That statute ensures discovery rights for a party such as OCC that is performing its state work to investigate utility monopolies such as the FirstEnergy Utilities. That the FirstEnergy Utilities perceive they have license to decline to answer OCC’s discovery confirms the PUCO has failed to impose sufficient consequences to deter utilities from this obstructionist tactic.

Under Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-12 and 4901-1-23, OCC moves the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (“PUCO”), the legal director, the deputy legal director, or an attorney examiner for an order compelling the FirstEnergy Utilities to immediately respond to OCC’s Fourth Set of Discovery, served on December 29, 2020. OCC’s discovery is attached. The FirstEnergy Utilities refused to respond to nearly every request of OCC. OCC’s discovery is important for its advocacy to the PUCO in the review of the corporate separation issues surrounding the FirstEnergy Utilities’ H.B. 6 activities. OCC’s efforts to resolve differences between it and the FirstEnergy Utilities are detailed in the attached affidavit, per Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-21(C)(3), reflecting an impasse. The PUCO should use its authority (Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-23(F)) to penalize the FirstEnergy Utilities, in quarter-million dollar increments, for each of its distract and delay tactics, among other sanctions. The penalty should be deposited for the use of consumer bill-payment assistance.

The reasons supporting this motion are set forth in the attached Memorandum in Support. The PUCO should require the FirstEnergy Utilities to fully respond to OCC’s discovery requests, posthaste.

MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT

I. INTRODUCTION

The burgeoning H.B. 6 scandal has fueled great controversy over FirstEnergy's corporate governance and whether the FirstEnergy Utilities (and their affiliates) violated Ohio law and rules relating to corporate separation. On this subject, Standard and Poor's recently wrote about FirstEnergy:

We believe these violations at the highest level of the company are demonstrative of insufficient internal controls and a cultural weakness. We view the severity of these violations as significantly outside of industry norms and, in our view, they represent a material deficiency in the company's governance.⁵

A key to this case is finding out if the FirstEnergy Utilities subsidized illegal H.B. 6 activities that benefitted their now former generation affiliate, FirstEnergy Solutions.⁶ If they did, Ohio law, PUCO rules and PUCO orders were violated and customers who were harmed are deserving of justice.

⁵ See Khalid, U., "S&P downgrades FirstEnergy following $1.95B draw on revolving credit facility," S&P Market Intelligence (Nov. 25, 2020).

Revelations from FirstEnergy Corp’s recent earnings call confirm that this is a distinct possibility. On the February 16, 2021 earnings call, FirstEnergy Corp. reported that in the course of its internal investigation (which it will not provide discovery on) it identified transactions over a long period of time that were “either improperly classified, misallocated to certain of utility or transmission companies or lacked proper supporting documentation” with amounts being collected from customers.⁷ According to FirstEnergy Corp. Board Executive Director Christopher Pappas, the transactions could include lobbying and political activities misallocated to certain of its utility companies, resulting in collections from customers,⁸ with the majority of the transactions related to Ohio.⁹ This is not good news, but tends to confirm our suspicions and calls into question the FirstEnergy Utilities’ assertion that customers have not paid riders or charges for political expenses, including H.B. 6 costs.¹⁰

Under Ohio law, a utility must follow a corporate separation plan that upholds “the public interest in preventing unfair competitive advantage and preventing the abuse of market power.”¹¹ The plan shall be “sufficient to ensure that the utility will not extend any undue preference or advantage to any affiliate, division, or part of its own business engaged in the business of supplying competitive retail electric service.”¹² The plan must also avoid anticompetitive subsidies between competitive and non-competitive retail electric services.¹³

In 2017, the PUCO ordered that Sage Management Consultants, LLC. (“Sage”) perform an audit of FirstEnergy’s compliance with the Ohio’s corporate separation law and PUCO rules.¹⁴ In at least one instance, Sage found that FirstEnergy’s corporate structure was “highly inappropriate” because it combined competitive and noncompetitive functions into the same shared services organization, supervised by its Senior Vice President of Marketing and Branding.¹⁵ Fast forward to October 29, 2020, where, in an SEC filing, FirstEnergy Corp. revealed that it fired three of its top executives, including the very same Senior Vice President of Marketing and Branding, for violating company policies and its code of conduct.¹⁶

Following FirstEnergy’s October 29th reporting, the PUCO acceded to OCC’s calls for an investigation, recognizing the need to “take additional action to ensure compliance by the Companies and its affiliates with the corporate separation provision of R.C. 4928.17 and with the Companies’ Commission-approved corporate separation plans.”¹⁷ The PUCO ordered an additional audit to assist in its review of whether the FirstEnergy Utilities and their affiliates complied with Ohio law, PUCO rules, and their filed corporate separation plan. This second audit is to cover the period between November 1, 2016 and October 31, 2020 (the time leading up to the passage of H.B. 6 and the subsequent referendum).

On December 29, 2020, OCC sent its Fourth Set of Discovery to the FirstEnergy Utilities (albeit its first set directed to the new audit period). On January 19, 2021, the FirstEnergy Utilities responded, stating that they would not respond to OCC's discovery requests at this time because the discovery requests were premature. The FirstEnergy Utilities claimed that since the final audit report was not due until months later, "no discovery in audit proceedings may be taken prior to the issuance of the final audit report." See Attachment 1. Additionally, the FirstEnergy Utilities indicated that they "reserve their right to make all further objectionsat the appropriate time.

OCC Counsel contacted the FirstEnergy Utilities Counsel to set up a time to discuss the FirstEnergy Utilities' objections to OCC's discovery. On February 1, 2021, Ms. Willis and Mr. Doringo discussed their interpretation of PUCO precedent on when discovery is permissible in audit proceedings. It became clear in that conversation that OCC and the FirstEnergy Utilities have a fundamental disagreement on that issue. OCC requested Mr. Doringo check with his client on whether they would reconsider and present a compromise offer to OCC on the discovery. Mr. Doringo advised he would get back to Ms. Willis with respect to any compromise the utilities were willing to make on the discovery.

As of February 10, 2021, Mr. Doringo had not responded with the utilities' position on any possible discovery compromise. Accordingly, OCC contacted the Utilities to inquire as to progress on the matter. Mr. Doringo then responded on February 12, 2021 that the utilities were not willing to make any compromise on the discovery responses and, instead, they would stand by their original objections to OCC's discovery.

A. OCC has a right to discovery which under the PUCO rules may begin "immediately after a proceeding has commenced."

According to the PUCO "the policy of discovery is to allow the parties to prepare cases and to encourage them to prepare thoroughly without taking undue advantage of the other side's industry or efforts.”¹⁸ The PUCO’s rules on discovery “do not create an additional field of combat to delay trials or to appropriate the Commission’s time and resources; they are designed to confine discovery procedures to counsel and to expedite the administration of the Commission proceedings.”¹⁹

These rules are meant to facilitate “prompt and expeditious” use of discovery consistent with the full and ample discovery rights granted to parties under R.C. 4903.082. See Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-16(A). R.C. 4903.082 was effective in 1983 as part of a more comprehensive regulatory reform.

Yet all these years later, the FirstEnergy Utilities are impeding OCC’s discovery efforts. The PUCO should not allow the FirstEnergy Utilities to use obstructionist tactics to deny OCC the ample and prompt discovery allowed under Ohio law and PUCO rules. The PUCO should use its authority (Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-23(F)) to penalize the FirstEnergy Utilities, in quarter-million dollar increments, for each of its distract and delay tactics, among other sanctions. The penalty should be deposited for the use of consumer bill-payment assistance.

OCC, as a party in this proceeding, is entitled to begin discovery “immediately” after a proceeding is commenced under the PUCO rules of discovery. See Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-17 (A). This proceeding was commenced by the PUCO in 2017 (almost four years ago) to ensure the FirstEnergy Utilities’ compliance with R.C. 4928.17, the PUCO corporate separation rules and Ohio policies under R.C. 4928.02.²⁰ The recent Entry by the PUCO has merely extended the period under review to encompass H.B. 6 activities.

OCC's right to discovery is assured by law, rules and Supreme Court of Ohio ("Court") precedent.²¹ OCC is entitled to obtain discovery from the FirstEnergy Utilities at all stages of the proceeding, beginning with when the proceeding is commenced. Further, the Ohio Administrative Code instructs parties to complete discovery "as expeditiously as possible."²²

In Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-23, the PUCO provides the procedure for parties to obtain the enforcement of these discovery rights, guaranteed by law and rule. Under Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-23(A) and (B) the PUCO can compel a party to respond to a discovery request when the party has failed to do so. Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-23(C) details the technical requirements for a motion to compel, which OCC meets.

The Motion to Compel is to be accompanied by a Memorandum in Support setting forth the basis of the Motion and authorities relied upon; a brief explanation of how the information sought is relevant; and responses to objections raised by the party from whom the discovery is sought.²³ Finally, Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-23(C) requires the party seeking discovery to file an affidavit explaining how it has exhausted all other reasonable means of resolving the differences with the party from whom the discovery is sought.

OCC has detailed in the accompanying Affidavit of Maureen Willis, consistent with Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-23(C)(3), the efforts that it undertook to resolve differences between it and the FirstEnergy Utilities. At this point, there can be no resolution of this discovery dispute without PUCO intervention. OCC seeks discovery from the FirstEnergy Utilities now and the FirstEnergy Utilities will continue to refuse to produce the discovery without the PUCO compelling such a result.

B. The information OCC seeks is reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

OCC meets the Ohio Administrative Code's standard that discovery must be reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.²⁴ This case involves an investigation into the FirstEnergy's Utilities' (and their affiliates) compliance with corporate separation requirements, with a current focus on their activities during the H.B. 6 scandal. OCC's discovery requests are reasonably designed to elicit information on this topic. The discovery requests are aimed at the organizational structure of the FirstEnergy Utilities and their affiliates, which corporate entities and departments were responsible for the H.B. 6 activities, and whether officials failed to maintain the required separation between competitive and noncompetitive activities. These topics are relevant and OCC's discovery is reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence concerning whether corporate separation laws and rules may have been violated in connection with H.B. 6 activities.

It should be noted that the FirstEnergy Utilities have not objected to OCC's discovery on grounds of relevance. Any claim by the Utilities that they could assert such objections later ("at the appropriate time") does not pass muster. This suggested practice, where a party could forego objecting and identifying the reason for the objection until a more convenient time, is without precedent in PUCO practice and is contrary to the PUCO rules. (See Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-19(A) requiring a party to “fully” answer interrogatories, “unless objected to, in which case the reason for the objection shall be stated in lieu of an answer.”)

Additionally, allowing the answering party to withhold objections to discovery until it designates an “appropriate” time, interferes with the ability of parties to enforce their discovery rights, through a motion to compel (under Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-23). This practice would not allow discovery to proceed expeditiously, as required by PUCO rules. And if the objections are a moving target, only to resurface at a time convenient to the answering party, the PUCO’s ability to resolve discovery conflicts once and for all is jeopardized. Case law holds that where a party fails to object on a timely basis to discovery, it has waived its objection.²⁵

An American Bar Association article summarized the three main problems with such conditional discovery responses:

1. They can be confusing. What does it mean to produce documents ‘subject to and not waiving’ various objections? It is not always clear. Perhaps the party is producing some documents and withholding others based on its objections. Or, perhaps the party is producing all responsive documents, but simply noting that the discovery request is objectionable as stated.

In the words of one court, the requesting party is ‘left guessing as to whether [the producing party] has produced all documents, or only produced some documents and withheld others.’ See Pro Fit Mgmt., Inc. v. Lady of Am. Franchise Corp., No. 08-CV-2662, 2011 WL 939226, at *9 (D. Kan. Feb. 25, 2011) objections overruled, 2011 WL 1434626 (D. Kan. Apr. 14, 2011). (Though less common, courts have also criticized the use of conditional discovery responses to interrogatories. See Mann v. Island Resorts Dev., Inc., No. 3:08CV297, 2009 WL 6409113, at *3-4 (N.D. Fla. Feb. 27, 2009)).

²⁵ Meyer v. United States, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26510, 2017 WL 735750 (D. Kan. Feb. 24, 2017); Flinn Block, LLC v. DESA, LLC, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 158538, 2010 WL 11701126 (D. Ore. (June 25, 2010)).

2. They may render discovery unmanageable. Another concern is that conditional discovery responses may lead to increased motion practice during discovery. ‘Absent an indication of what, exactly, the responding party was objecting to. . . courts would be flooded with motions to compel by litigants seeking to confirm that undisclosed responsive documents did not exist. And courts would then be forced to ask counsel, over and over again, ‘Do other documents exist?’ Haeger v. Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., 906 F. Supp. 2d 938, 977 (D. Ariz. 2012).
3. They may be inconsistent with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. ‘The plain language of Rule 34 requires a partial response be identified as such.’ Id. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 34(b)(2)(C) (‘An objection to part of a request must specify the part and permit inspection of the rest.’); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 33(b)(3) (‘Each interrogatory must, to the extent it is not objected to, be answered separately and fully in writing under oath.’).²⁶

Here, the time to object was twenty days after service, meaning answers and objections to OCC’s discovery were due on or before January 19, 2021. Consequently, the Utilities have waived their right to object on grounds of relevancy (and any other unstated grounds) in their misinformed attempt to preserve their right to later object. Their sole objection for purposes of this motion to compel is whether OCC’s discovery is premature. It’s not.

²⁶ L. Sexton, Beware of “Subject to and Not Waiving” in Discovery Responses, Am. Bar Ass’n (May 21, 2015), available at: <https://www.americanbar.org/groups/litigation/committees/products-liability/practice/2015/beware-of-subject-to-and-not-waiving-in-discovery-responses/>

C. OCC is entitled to begin discovery in this case prior to completion of the Audit Report.

The crux of the FirstEnergy Utilities' delay is whether a party may begin discovery prior to the filing of a supplemental audit report. The answer to this is found in the PUCO's rules. Yes, parties may begin discovery when a proceeding is commenced under Ohio Admin. Code 4901-1-16(A). This proceeding was commenced in 2017, almost four years ago. FirstEnergy Utilities acted unreasonably and contrary to PUCO rules when they refused to respond to discovery until after the supplemental audit report is filed.

The FirstEnergy Utilities refusal to timely respond to discovery is based on a single, recent, yet distinguishable Attorney Examiner ruling in another FirstEnergy case. See In the Matter of the Review of the Distribution Modernization Rider of Ohio Edison Company, the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company and the Toledo Edison Company, Case No. 17-2474-EL-RDR, Entry (Nov. 1, 2018). The FirstEnergy Utilities' cited precedent happens also to be the infamous PUCO case that was linked to the Ohio Supreme Court throwing out the PUCO's Order and ruling the FirstEnergy Utilities' distribution modernization charge to be illegal. There, the FirstEnergy Utilities collected nearly a half-billion dollars from consumers that it got to keep because the PUCO voted earlier to not make the charge refundable.²⁷ We would not recommend emulating that case for much of anything.

In that case, OCC sought to conduct discovery before the issuance of a final audit report where the FirstEnergy Utilities distribution modernization rider was to be audited. The Utilities refused to respond to the discovery on the ground that it was premature. They filed a motion for protective order and OCC filed a motion to compel.

Although the Attorney Examiner ruled in the FirstEnergy Utilities' favor, that ruling is distinguishable from the present case. First, the discovery sought in that proceeding was directed at requests and responses tied to the audit report, and the Utilities made claims that disclosure should not occur until the Staff's investigation was completed (under R.C. 4901.16). Not so for the discovery that is the subject of this motion to compel. OCC discovery here is largely independent of what transpires between the FirstEnergy Utilities and the PUCO-appointed auditor.

Second, the Attorney Examiner's ruling touted by the FirstEnergy Utilities hinged on the fact that the filing of the audit report was contingent upon two events, neither of which had occurred at the time OCC's discovery was served. The PUCO noted that the audit report would only be filed if the distribution modernization rider was (1) extended or (2) terminated.²⁸ The PUCO found that it was possible that there would be nothing for the PUCO or the parties to review or investigate. In that case, there would have been no need for any discovery.

In the present case, there is nothing contingent about the supplemental audit. The audit will occur and an audit report will be filed. Discovery in this case is needed and will better inform the PUCO in its review of whether the FirstEnergy Utilities and their affiliates violated Ohio law and PUCO rules on corporate separation. The discovery ruling in the FirstEnergy Utilities' distribution modernization rider case is not controlling because it is distinguishable from the present case.

²⁸ In the Matter of the Review of the Distribution Modernization Rider of Ohio Edison Company, the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company and the Toledo Edison Company, Case No. 17-2474-EL-RDR, Entry at ¶15 (Nov. 1, 2018).

In other cases, the PUCO has ruled that parties may commence discovery prior to the issuance of an audit report.²⁹ That is the sensible and legal approach. And it is consistent with the Ohio Administrative Code and the statutory discovery rights parties are afforded under R.C. 4903.082.

This case also presents an extraordinary situation where a $60 million bribe was made allegedly by the FirstEnergy Utilities' affiliates to fund illegal H.B. 6 activities. The events surrounding H.B. 6 have shaken the public's confidence in the legislative and regulatory systems. Discovery should proceed.

The longer discovery is delayed, the harder it will be to obtain answers and the easier it is for the FirstEnergy Utilities and their affiliates to evade discovery. FirstEnergy Corp. fired certain top executives for violating company policies related to the H.B. 6 scandal. These executives may have knowledge regarding whether the FirstEnergy Utilities and their affiliates undertook activities that violated corporate separation laws, rules, and PUCO orders. With the passage of time, it may be more difficult to obtain answers from individuals no longer employed by FirstEnergy Corp. This factor also weighs in favor of allowing discovery to go forward now, instead of down the road.

In sum, Ohio law, the Ohio Administrative Code and PUCO precedent supports OCC's right to begin discovery now – nearly four years after the proceeding was commenced and months before the second audit report is completed. The unusual circumstances of this case present additional reasons to allow “prompt and expeditious” use of discovery now, not months from now.

D. OCC undertook reasonable efforts to resolve the discovery dispute.

As detailed in the accompanying Affidavit of Maureen Willis, OCC undertook efforts to resolve this discovery dispute.

OCC has exhausted all other reasonable means to resolve differences between it and the FirstEnergy Utilities. OCC and the FirstEnergy Utilities have an irreconcilable difference as to whether OCC has a right to conduct discovery prior to the filing of the Audit Report. The PUCO needs to act to resolve this dispute.

II. CONCLUSION

The PUCO, consistent with the Ohio Administrative Code, Ohio law and the public interest, should grant OCC's Motion to Compel. Granting this Motion would protect consumers by assisting OCC and other parties in their investigation. It would also better inform the PUCO's review of whether the FirstEnergy Utilities complied with the corporate separation law and rules, by providing the PUCO with a more complete record upon which to base its decision. OCC's Motion to Compel should be granted and FirstEnergy Utilities should be ordered to respond to OCC's discovery requests in a timely manner, without regard to whether the second audit report has been completed or filed. Additionally, the PUCO should penalize the FirstEnergy Utilities, in quarter-million dollar increments, for each of its distract and delay tactics, among other sanctions. The penalty should be deposited for the use of consumer bill-payment assistance.

AFFIDAVIT OF MAUREEN R. WILLIS IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO COMPEL

I, Maureen R. Willis, Senior Counsel for the Ohio Consumers' Counsel ("OCC") in the above-captioned case, submit this affidavit in support of OCC's Motion to Compel Responses to Discovery.

1. After receiving the FirstEnergy Utilities' responses to OCC's Fourth Set of Discovery, I contacted FirstEnergy Utilities Counsel to set up a time to discuss the FirstEnergy Utilities objections to OCC's discovery.
2. On February 1, 2021, I discussed with Counsel Doringo the FirstEnergy Utilities' interpretation of PUCO precedent on when discovery is permissible in audit proceedings. It became clear in that conversation that OCC and the FirstEnergy Utilities have a fundamental disagreement on that issue. FirstEnergy Utilities believe no discovery can be had before June of 2021, the expected date of the audit report filing. OCC fundamentally disagrees with FirstEnergy Utilities' position and advocates for answers now, consistent with the PUCO rules.

3. I requested that Mr. Doringo check with his client on whether they would reconsider and present a compromise offer to OCC on the discovery. Mr. Doringo advised he would get back to me with respect to any compromise the Utilities were willing to make on the discovery.

4. Ten days passed and I contacted Mr. Doringo to inquire as to progress on the matter. I advised Mr. Doringo if OCC did not hear back from him by the end of the week, it would go forward with a motion to compel.

5. On February 12, Mr. Doringo advised that the Companies have decided to stand by their objections to OCC's Fourth Set of Discovery.

OHIO EDISON COMPANY, THE CLEVELAND ELECTRIC ILLUMINATING COMPANY, AND THE TOLEDO EDISON COMPANY'S RESPONSES AND OBJECTIONS TO THE OFFICE OF THE OHIO CONSUMERS' COUNSEL'S FOURTH SET OF DISCOVERY REQUESTS

Pursuant to Rules 4901-1-16 through 4901-1-22 of the Ohio Administrative Code and in accordance with Ohio Rules of Civil Procedure 26, 33, and 34, Ohio Edison Company, The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, and The Toledo Edison Company (the "Companies") submit their responses and objections to the Office of Ohio Consumers' Counsel's ("OCC") Fourth Set of Interrogatories, Requests for Admission, and Requests for Production (collectively, "Discovery Requests").

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

The Companies incorporate the following objections into each response below, as if fully restated therein:

1. The Companies object to OCC's attempt to provide definitions and "instructions for answering" that are broader than, or inconsistent with, the rules of the Ohio Administrative Code or the Ohio Rules of Civil Procedure. The Companies will respond in accordance with their obligations under those rules.

2. As a preliminary matter, the Companies object to OCC's Fourth Set of Discovery Requests in their entirety because these requests are premature. Under the Commission's November 4 Entry in this proceeding, the final audit report is not due until April 21, 2021, and Commission Staff has requested an extension of that deadline to June 21, 2021. As the Commission has recognized, no discovery in audit proceedings may be taken prior to the issuance of the final audit report. See, e.g., In the Matter of the Review of the Distribution Modernization Rider of Ohio Edison Company, The Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, and The Toledo Edison Company, Case No. 17-2474-EL-RDR, Entry at ¶ 15 (Nov. 1, 2018) (denying motion to compel discovery as premature). The Companies reserve their right to raise further objections, whether general or specific, at the appropriate time.

3. The Companies object to the definition of "Documents" and "Documentation" to the extent it seeks to impose obligations on the Companies that are broader than, or inconsistent with, those imposed by the rules of the Ohio Administrative Code and the Ohio Rules of Civil Procedure. The Companies construe the term "documents" to be synonymous in meaning and equal in scope to the usage of the term "documents" in Rule 34(A) of the Ohio Rules of Civil Procedure.

4. The Companies object to the definition of "Communication(s)" as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and vague and ambiguous, and the Companies further object to the extent that the definition seeks to impose obligations on the Companies that are broader than, or inconsistent with, those imposed by the rules of the Ohio Administrative Code and the Ohio Rules of Civil Procedure. For example, OCC defines "Communication(s)" to include the transmission of information by "oral" or "otherwise perceptible means" and therefore unreasonably purports to require the Companies to describe in detail communications that are not contained in any document. Further, the definition states that a request “seeking the identity of a communication . . . encompasses documents having factual, contextual, or logical nexus to the matter, as well as communications in which explicit or implicit reference is made to the matter in the course of the communication” and therefore unreasonably purports to place an undue burden on the Companies to identify any documents or communications having any “nexus” or containing any “explicit or implicit” reference to the subject matter of a communication.

5. The Companies object to the definition of “You,” and “Your,” or “Yourself” as overbroad, unduly burdensome, vague, and ambiguous because it unreasonably purports to require the Companies to provide information on behalf of any “present or former director, officer, agent, contractor, consultant, advisor, employee, partner, or joint venturer” and is unlimited as to time. The Companies construe the terms “You,” “Your,” and “Yourself” to refer only to the Companies.

6. The Companies object to the definition of “Identify,” or “the identity of”, or “identified” as overbroad, unduly burdensome, vague, and ambiguous. For example, this definition unreasonably purports to obligate the Companies to provide information outside of their personal knowledge, to identify all persons “in the presence” of parties to communications, and to describe “acts” and the persons in the presence of the “actor.”

7. The Companies object to the definition of “FirstEnergy Service Co.” as vague and ambiguous in its use of the phrase “controlled by the Board of Directors of FirstEnergy Corp.”

8. The Companies object to the definition of “Political and Charitable Spending” as overbroad, unduly burdensome, vague, and ambiguous. The Companies further object to this definition to the extent it purports to state a legal conclusion regarding the scope of the Commission’s jurisdiction.

9. The Companies object to the definition of “House Bill 6 activities” as overbroad, unduly burdensome, vague, and ambiguous.

10. The Companies object to the instruction “to produce responsive materials and information” in the possession of persons “purporting to act on [the Companies’] behalf” because this instruction on its face calls for the production of materials that are not within the Companies’ possession, custody, or control.

11. The Companies object to the instruction in numbered paragraph 8 of the “Instructions for Answering” as overbroad, unduly burdensome, vague, and ambiguous. For example, this instruction unreasonably purports to require the Companies to search for and produce “information and tangible materials” over a 13-year period of time.

12. The Companies object to the “instructions” for invoking privilege to the extent they seek to impose requirements on the Companies that are broader than, or inconsistent with, those imposed by the Ohio Administrative Code or by the Ohio Rules of Civil Procedure. Should the Companies withhold any document on the basis of any applicable privilege, immunity, or protection, the Companies will provide the information required by Ohio Rule of Civil Procedure 26(B)(8)(a).

13. The Companies object to OCC’s “instructions” in numbered paragraphs 11 and 12 of the “Instructions for Answering” because they unreasonably purport to require the Companies to treat interrogatories as requests for production of documents or requests for production of documents as interrogatories under certain circumstances. The Companies will treat interrogatories as interrogatories and requests for production of documents as requests for production of documents.

14. The Companies object to OCC's "instruction" in numbered paragraph 13 of the "Instructions for Answering" as vague and ambiguous because this instruction appears to have been copied and pasted from OCC's requests in another proceeding. The Companies have filed no "Application" in this case.

15. The Companies object to each request to the extent that it seeks production of information that is confidential business, commercial, financial, or proprietary information belonging to the Companies or third parties.

16. The Companies object to Complainant's requests to the extent they seek information or documents protected from disclosure by the First Amendment. The Supreme Court has recognized that the forced disclosure of political associations raises First Amendment concerns, because the "[i]nviolability of privacy in group association may in many circumstances be indispensable to preservation of freedom of association." NAACP v. State of Ala. ex rel. Patterson, 357 U.S. 449, 462 (1958). Compelled disclosure of campaign-related communications in civil discovery can deter activities protected under the First Amendment "by chilling participation and by muting the internal exchange of ideas." Perry v. Schwarzenegger, 591 F.3d 1147, 1163 (9th Cir. 2010). Thus, courts "have repeatedly found that compelled disclosure, in itself, can seriously infringe on privacy of association and belief guaranteed by the First Amendment." Id. at 1160 (citing AFL-CIO v. FEC, 333 F.3d 168, 175 (D.C. Cir. 2003)); see also Black Panther Party v. Smith, 661 F.2d 1243, 1268 (D.C. Cir. 1981), vacated on other grounds, 458 U.S. 1118 (1982).
