To whom it may concern -

The family farm that is involved in this case is a long standing family farm and their property is prime FARM LAND. What the system and Columbia Gas is doing to this family farm is an example of corporate America with deep pockets taking advantage of the local farmer (not Corporate farmer).

The state held preservation easement should be defense enough for the Bailey family.

The passing down of a family farm is getting less and less common. Don't take this family farm out of the hands of this generation so the next generation can't keep with the family tradition.

I pray that your decision will be in consideration of the local family and result in Columbia Gas and the political supports come up with an alternative plan.

Sincerely,
Kathy Clevenger
