Application Experience and Plan Description: The company intends to use its large network of relationships within the commercial real estate industry to offer energy procurement services with regard to electricity, without taking title to the power. Under no circumstances will the company take title to any commodity whatsoever. In addition, the contract for the procurement of power will be between the energy supplier (the energy company providing the electric) and the energy user (the real estate owner). The company's role will be that of essentially a broker, and it will attempt to match the needs of the many commercial real estate companies (with a particular emphasis on owners of shopping malls) with which it is familiar and has worked with over the last few decades with the largest energy suppliers in the nation. The company management team has a combined 60 years of experience working with energy needs and operations of commercial real estate properties. The company will provide renewal energy systems and energy procurement services in an effort to contain very high energy costs. The company will also offer demand response energy service, energy management systems and other solutions that will reduce the tremendous cost of energy for real estate companies, many of which spend tens of millions of dollars annually. Our management team's decades of experience with commercial real estate operations, including many years working with the heads of operations for various real estate companies, will enable us to analyze such companies' specific energy needs, help them to design plans to meet their needs and objectives and work with them to procure energy (electricity only) for their properties. Our management team is available 24/7 to meet customers' needs as has been done over the years in other areas of services provided them relative to their properties' operations. The company will be able to personally deal with any questions, complaints or other points they raise in connection with the planned services to be offered by the company to them. Resource Energy Solutions, LLC currently provides electric aggregator and power broker services to thirteen customers in Ohio. The customers consist of strip malls, enclosed malls, convenience stores, offices, manufacturing centers, and outlet malls. The current utility service areas are Duke Energy, AEP Ohio, Toledo Edison, and Cleveland Electric Illuminating and to date the total amount of load is approximately 58,800 MWh of annual load in these utility service areas.
