Exhibit B-2 "Summary of Experience"

Company Overview:

Founded in 2007, EMEX serves a need in the energy space for an easy-to-use online platform to procure electricity through the wholesale and retail markets. EMEX has grown to one of the leading energy procurement and analysis services within the deregulated states.

EMEX is a privately held firm providing energy procurement and analysis services in deregulated regions of the United States. EMEX's complete portfolio of services and proprietary, online platforms are entirely focused on reducing the cost of energy in real-time for:

- commercial and industrial businesses
- municipalities and government agencies
- public and private schools and universities
- non-profit organizations.

EMEX enables its customers to: (1) compare prices with a reverse auction platform and instant online pricing features; (2) receive automated custom quotes and historical analysis, (3) benefit from aggregation and the ability to offer executable contracts from over 125 national suppliers. EMEX's electricity and gas brokerage business allows customers to shop and contract directly with retail electricity and gas suppliers. The retail electricity and gas suppliers (as opposed to EMEX) provide contracted services, billing statements and respond to customer inquiries.

EMEX's mission is to put the power to save money in the hands of its clients with smart, ground-breaking technology designed to dramatically simplify energy procurement. Core to EMEX is the flagship product brand EMEX Reverse Auction Platform, nationally recognized for its innovation and excellence.

Headquartered in Houston, Texas, EMEX's offices house teams for sales, analysis, marketing, customer service, and finance. EMEX's reach ensures it is well positioned to leverage opportunities as they occur, with employees throughout the 50 states. EMEX's activities continue to stretch as retail choice comes to more states, giving EMEX the ability to react quickly to wherever there is a need to accurately and efficiently manage energy procurement.

EMEX also has a full-time dedicated legal and regulatory staff committed to ensuring compliance with applicable regulations and assisting the client relations department in resolving customer inquiries and disputes.

Exhibit B-3 "Disclosure of Liabilities and Investigations"

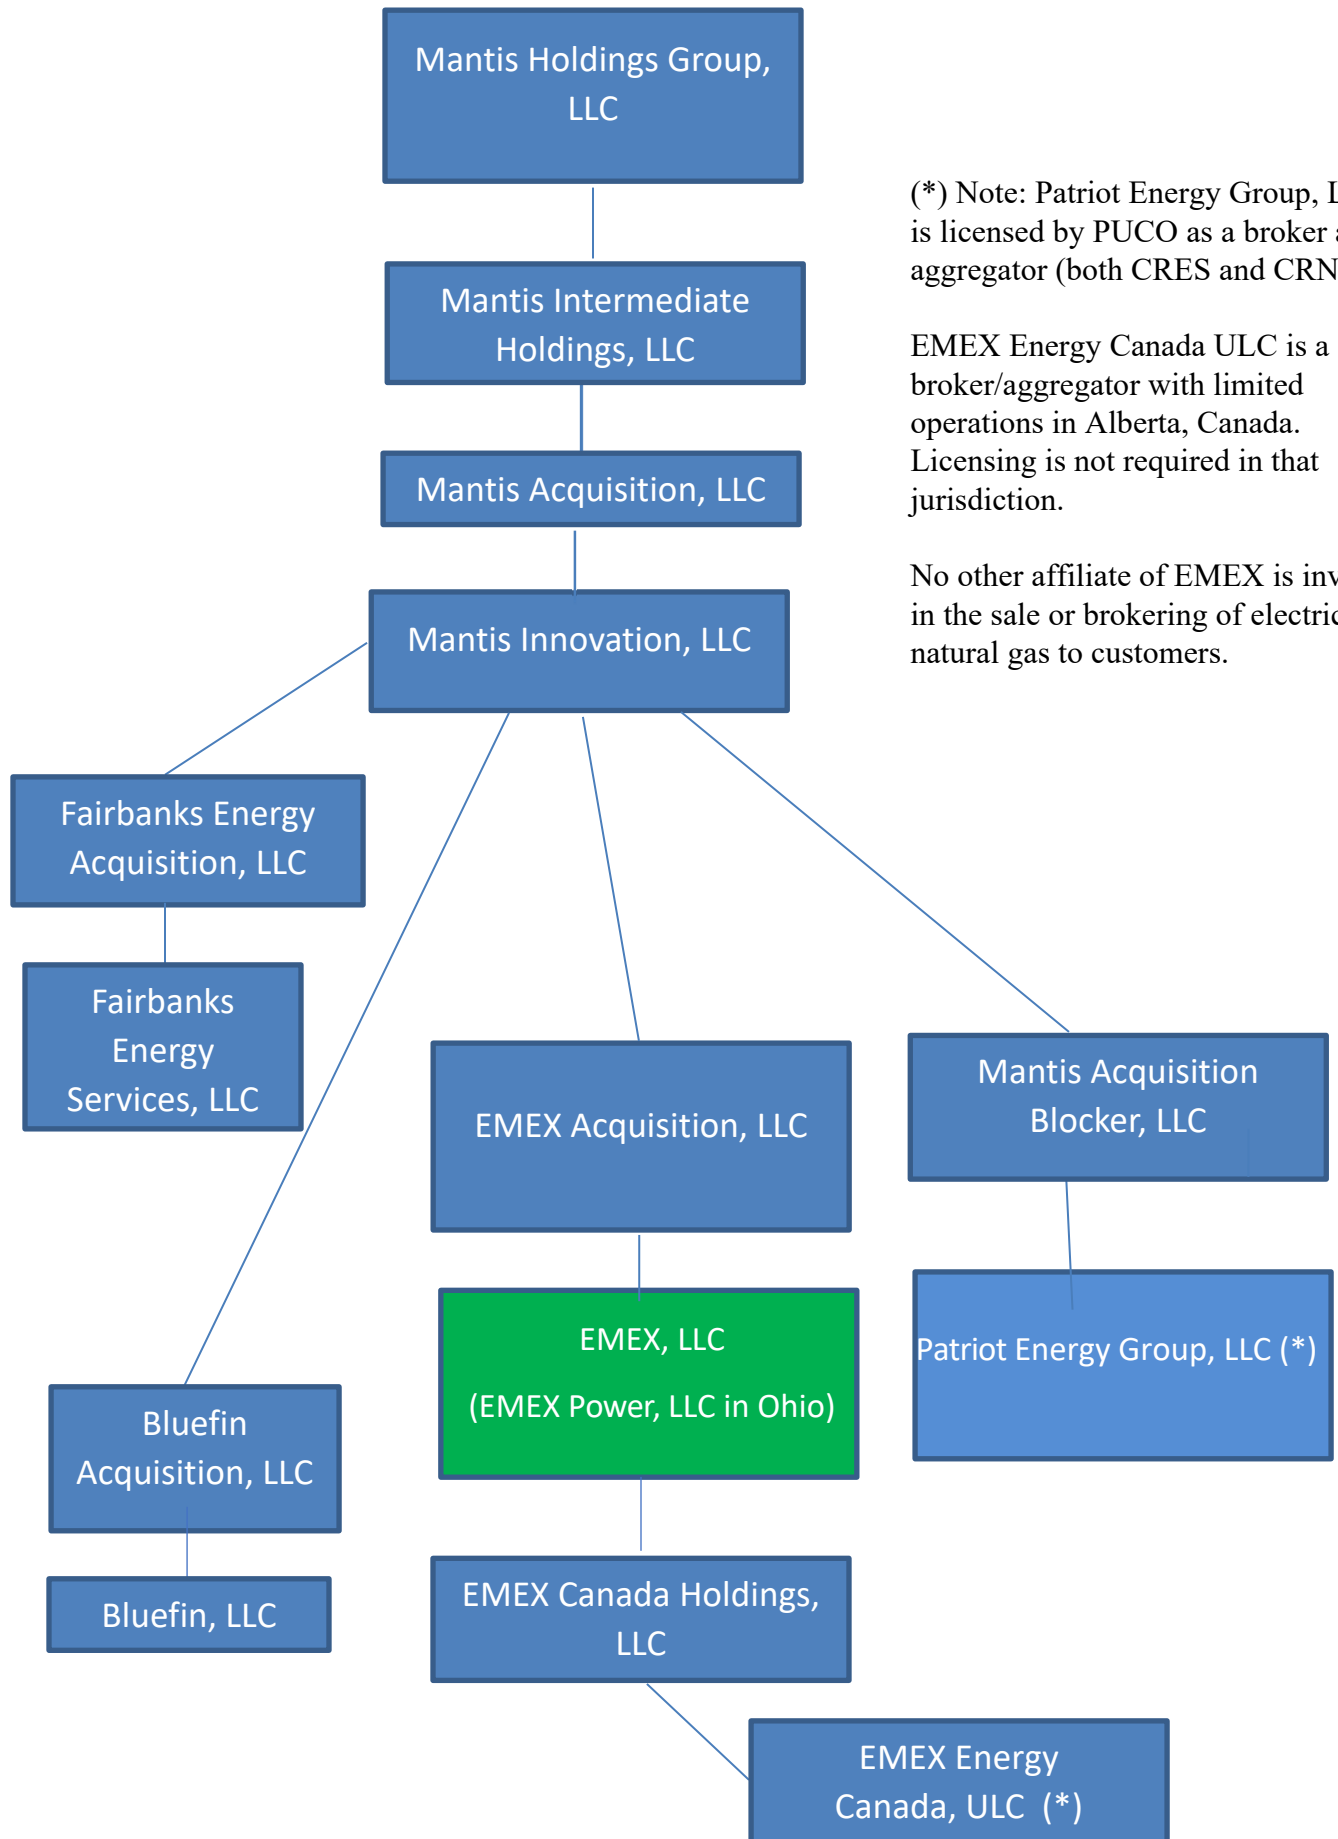

On October 21, 2010, the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission ("PA PUC") granted EMEX a License for Electric Generation Supplier as an electricity broker/marketer in docket A-2010-2179537. Subsequently, the PA PUC issued an order cancelling EMEX's electric generation supplier license # A-2010-2179537 on July 16, 2019, for failure to provide proof of financial security (the PA PUC requires all licensed electric generation suppliers to furnish the original bond demonstrating financial security). However, EMEX immediately filed a Petition for Reconsideration of this cancellation based on the fact that the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission's request for the bond was sent to the wrong regulatory contact, such that EMEX had no actual notice of the request or the pending cancellation. Moreover, the required security bond had been in place continuously with no interruption throughout the time in question. On August 8, 2019, the PA PUC granted EMEX's Petition for Reconsideration, pending review of the merits. This matter was favorably resolved with EMEX being issued a new electric generation license # A-2019-3014305 on December 19, 2019.
