CP07-208-000 REX Pipeline East

Dear Commissioners,

I am surprised that Hoosier Hills and Murray Energy, probably others, have not sought injunctive relief in the federal courts against the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and the Rockies Express partnership. Hoosier Hills is an "in production" water supplier that is looking to the future for its customers. Murray Energy supplies 50% of the coal to electrical generation plants in the United States. Interrupting or damaging these natural resource providers that are currently in production would have catastrophic results, this is just so that the Rockies Express partnership will make some profit with an unproven pipeline.

As that the United States Air Force is looking to a future using a liquefied coal product makes the need for an uninterrupted supply of coal a matter of national security. The source of clean uncontaminated water for the people of Indiana may not be a matter of national security, but it is no less important.

The thing that really amazes me is that the Federal Government is "backing" a company that has shown no respect for the people of the United States and the property as well as the life styles that many taxpayers have worked a lifetime to achieve.
