and Other Tier 1 Services Pursuant to Chapter)

VERIZON'S SUPPLEMENT TO ITS APPLICATION AND, IN THE ALTERNATIVE, MOTION FOR LEAVE TO SUPPLEMENT ITS APPLICATION

Verizon North Inc. ("Verizon") hereby supplements its Application herein, with the addition of the information set forth and attached hereto as Supplement 1 to its Application for Approval of an Alternative Form of Regulation of Basic Local Exchange Service and Other Tier 1 Services.

In the alternative, and if and to the extent required, Verizon hereby moves the Commission for leave to submit this Supplement. Concurrently, Verizon is filing its Memorandum in Response to the Opposition of the Office of the Ohio Consumers' Counsel and In Support Of Its Motion to Supplement Its Application, which will serve as the Memorandum in Support of Verizon's alternative Motion.

Information contained in this Supplement augments the information supplied in with Verizon's Application. As described in Verizon's Memorandum in Response to the Opposition of the Office of the Ohio Consumers' Counsel and In Support Of Its Motion to Supplement Its Application, Verizon no longer relies on certain information, and specifically certain carriers, identified in its Application.¹

¹ Verizon's Application no longer relies on dPi Teleconnect, TDS Telecom, or TracFone to support its application. Verizon's Memorandum in Response to the Opposition of the Office of the Ohio Consumers' Counsel and In Support Of Its Motion to Supplement Its Application, together with this Supplement, should be deemed controlling.

Finally, as described in Verizon's Memorandum in Support, this information provides only additional support for the findings requested in Verizon's September 2, 2008 Application, and requests no additional relief. Accordingly, Verizon submits that the information supplied herewith does not constitute a "material modification filed subsequent to the initial application," as contemplated by Ohio Administrative Code §4901:1-4-9. Nonetheless, if the Commission concludes otherwise, Verizon submits that response to this limited Supplement warrants only a brief modification of time as described in that Rule.

Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, Verizon North Inc. submits its Supplement and, in the alternative, submits that the Commission should grant it leave to do so, and further submits that this Supplement warrants no modification of time or, at most, a brief modification. Finally, Verizon North Inc. that Verizon's Application should be approved in all respects.

Respectfully submitted,

VERIZON NORTH INC.

White Pages Information

This exhibit shows actual screen shots of white page listings, sorted by Exchange. Certain items which are either not used or are customer propriety information (e.g., credit rating assignment) have been omitted.

The examples generally start with a phone number and the type of line over which service is provided (copper). Preceding the phone number is the "1R" designation, which reflects a residential customer.

The CLEC number and entity providing service is listed. Internal codes (Item of Service Code) are listed next to the provider and a description of the listing. The zeros after the name of the CLEC are billing for the customer's service (Verizon bills $0).

The next section provides a description of the order, purchase order number (PON), whether the customer wants their number published (PUB), the number of directories they are to receive (NO DIR) and where they should be delivered (e.g., service address or SA).

The next section describes the listing itself:

- PL Primary Listing
- OP Option (Residential, Publish)
- FL Name of the Directory
- DA Directory Address
- CM Community
- ZP Zip Code (not published)
- CL CLEC Code

RESTON, Va. — 08/03/2006

Sprint Nextel (NYSE: S) today announced a significant expansion of its relationship with Time Warner Cable, the second-largest cable operator in the United States and a unit of Time Warner Inc. (NYSE: TWX). Sprint Nextel has been selected to help provision Time Warner Cable's Digital Phone service in an additional 14 service areas. Time Warner Cable will soon utilize Sprint Nextel's IP Network to offer VoIP (Voice over Internet Protocol) based telephone service across most of its footprint of approximately 28 million homes-passed, except for Time Warner Cable's systems in New Hampshire and Maine.

Sprint Nextel now serves cable companies with a total of more than 1.2 million VoIP subscribers across more than 1,100 rate centers. Over a one-year period, Sprint Nextel is expected to provide cable telephony wireline services to cable companies serving over 2.5 million subscribers. The new five year agreement marks Sprint Nextel's continued expansion into the cable market, creating a revenue stream with strong growth potential. Sprint Nextel plans to continue to use its telecom assets and communications expertise to expand its delivery of telephony solutions to the cable industry.

"Sprint Nextel has proven to be an excellent partner and we look forward to expanding our relationship with them," said Glenn Britt, president and chief executive officer of Time Warner Cable. "Time Warner Cable now serves 1.6 million Digital Phone customers, and telephone has become one of the fastest growing segments of our video, high-speed data and voice bundle."

As part of the agreement, Sprint Nextel will carry long-distance traffic for Time Warner Cable residential customers and provide turnkey telephone services such as 911 services,

"Our vision for the cable initiative, whether its wireline or wireless, is to deliver compelling, integrated services that provide unique value to customers," said Gary Forsee, Sprint Nextel president and chief executive officer. "This expanded agreement with Time Warner Cable is illustrative of our company's growing importance in the cable sector."

Specific to the agreement with Time Warner Cable, Sprint Nextel will provide:

Interconnection facilities between Time Warner Cable's switch and the public telephone network for local and long-distance calling.

TIME WARNER
CABLE

Annual Report 2006

TWC has agreements with Verizon Communications, Inc. (“Verizon”) and Sprint Nextel Corporation (“Sprint”) under which these companies assist TWC in providing Digital Phone service by routing voice traffic to the public switched telephone network, delivering enhanced 911 service and assisting in local number portability and long distance traffic carriage. In July 2006, TWC agreed to expand its multi-year relationship with Sprint as its primary provider of these services, including in the Acquired Systems. See Item 1A, “Risk Factors — Risks Related to Dependence on Third Parties — TWC may not be able to obtain necessary hardware, software and operational support.”

Circuit-switched Telephone. In the Exchange, TWC acquired customers in the Comcast Acquired Systems who receive traditional, circuit-switched local and long distance telephone services. TWC continues to provide traditional, circuit-switched services to those subscribers and will continue to do so for some period of time, while it will simultaneously market its Digital Phone product to those customers. After some period of time, TWC intends to discontinue the circuit-switched offering in accordance with regulatory requirements, at which time the only voice services provided by TWC in those systems will be its Digital Phone service.

Service Bundles

In addition to selling its services separately, TWC is focused on marketing differentiated packages of multiple services and features, or “bundles,” for a single price. Increasingly, many of TWC’s customers subscribe to two or three of its services. The bundle represents a discount from the price of buying the services separately and the convenience of a single monthly bill. TWC believes that these “Double Play” and “Triple Play” offerings increase its customers’ satisfaction with TWC, increase customer retention and encourage subscription to additional features. In the Legacy Systems as of December 31, 2006, 46.1% of TWC’s customers, received at least two services. The table below sets forth the number of TWC’s “Double Play” and “Triple Play” customers as of the dates indicated.

	As of December 31,
	2004	2005	2006 ⁽¹⁾
	(in thousands)
Double Play	2,850	3,099	4,647
Triple Play	145	760	1,523

⁽¹⁾ Double Play and Triple Play subscribers include approximately 68,000 and 24,000 subscribers, respectively, acquired from Comcast in the Exchange who receive traditional, circuit-switched telephone service.

Cross-platform Features

In support of TWC’s bundled services strategy, TWC is developing features that operate across two or more of its services. For example, TWC has begun to offer customers who subscribe to both Time Warner Digital Cable and Digital Phone, at no charge, a Caller ID on TV feature that displays incoming call information on the customer’s television set. In July 2006, TWC introduced a new feature called “PhotoShowTV” in its Oceanic division in Hawaii that gives customers who subscribe to both Time Warner Digital Cable and Road Runner high-speed online service the ability to create and share their personal photo shows with TWC’s other Time Warner Cable digital video customers using TWC’s VOD technology.

New Opportunities

Commercial Voice

TWC believes that continued innovation on its advanced cable infrastructure may create additional business opportunities in the future. One such opportunity is the offering of IP-based telephony service to commercial customers as an adjunct to TWC’s existing commercial data business. TWC intends to introduce a commercial voice service to small- to medium-sized businesses in most of the Legacy Systems during 2007.

A limited number of vendors of key technologies can lead to less product innovation and higher costs. For these reasons, TWC generally endeavors to establish alternative vendors for materials it considers critical, but may not be able to establish these relationships or be able to obtain required materials on favorable terms. For example, each of TWC's systems currently purchases set-top boxes from a limited number of vendors. This is due to the fact that each of TWC's cable systems uses one of two proprietary conditional access security schemes, which allow TWC to regulate subscriber access to some services, such as premium channels. TWC believes that the proprietary nature of these conditional access schemes makes other manufacturers reluctant to produce set-top boxes. Future innovation in set-top boxes may be restricted until these issues are resolved. In addition, TWC believes that the general lack of compatibility among set-top box operating systems has slowed the industry's development and deployment of digital set-top box applications. TWC has developed a proprietary user interface and interactive programming guide that it expects to introduce in most of its operating areas during 2007. No assurance can be given that TWC's proprietary interface and guide will operate correctly, will be popular with consumers or will be compatible with other products and services that TWC's customers value.

In addition, TWC has agreements with Verizon and Sprint under which these companies assist TWC in providing Digital Phone service to customers by routing voice traffic to the public switched network, delivering enhanced 911 service and assisting in local number portability and long distance traffic carriage. In July 2006, TWC agreed to expand its multi-year relationship with Sprint, selecting Sprint as its primary provider of these services, including in the Acquired Systems. TWC's transition to and reliance on a single provider for the bulk of these services may render it vulnerable to service disruptions.

In addition, in some limited areas, as a result of rulings of the applicable state public utility commissions, Verizon and Sprint cannot provide TWC with certain of their services, including those that use interconnection obtained from certain local telephone companies. While TWC has filed a petition with the FCC requesting clarification that Verizon and Sprint are entitled to provide these services to TWC and, in the interim, plans to provide its Digital Phone service in these limited areas, where possible, by obtaining interconnection directly from the local telephone companies and providing TWC's own 911 connectivity and number portability, TWC's inability to use Sprint and Verizon for these services could negatively impact its ability to offer Digital Phone in certain areas as well as the cost of providing its service.

TWC may encounter substantially increased pole attachment costs.

Under federal law, TWC has the right to attach cables carrying video services to the telephone and similar poles of investor-owned utilities at regulated rates. However, because these cables carry services other than video services, such as high-speed data services or new forms of voice services, some utility pole owners have sought to impose additional fees for pole attachment. The U.S. Supreme Court has rejected the efforts of some utility pole owners to make cable attachments carrying Internet traffic ineligible for regulatory protection. Pole owners have, however, made arguments in other areas of pole regulation that, if successful, could significantly increase TWC's costs. In addition, TWC's pole attachment rates may increase insofar as TWC's systems are providing voice services.

Some of the poles TWC uses are exempt from federal regulation because they are owned by utility cooperatives and municipal entities. These entities may not renew TWC's existing agreements when they expire, and they may require TWC to pay substantially increased fees. A number of these entities are currently seeking to impose substantial rate increases. Any inability to secure continued pole attachment agreements with these cooperatives or municipal utilities on commercially reasonable terms could cause TWC's business, financial results or financial condition to suffer.

The adoption of, or the failure to adopt, certain consumer electronics devices or computers may negatively impact TWC's offerings of new and enhanced services.

Customer acceptance and use of new and enhanced services depend, to some extent, on customers having ready access and exposure to these services. One of the ways this access is facilitated is through the user interface included in TWC's digital set-top boxes. As of December 31, 2006, approximately 54% of TWC's basic video subscribers leased one or more digital set-top boxes from it. The consumer electronics industry's provision of "cable

47 C.F.R. § 76.1603	Customer Service- rate and service changes
47 C.F.R. § 76.1619	Information on subscriber bills

Please be advised that on March 1, 2008, the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio ("PUCO") call center began accepting consumer complaint calls on behalf of the Director. The PUCO call center staff will forward all consumer complaint information to the Department of Commerce's Video Service Authorization Section for follow-up with the consumer and the video service provider.

In accordance with 47 C.F.R. 76.952, the video service provider shall immediately place the following information on the provider's bill for all video service areas in which the provider has been issued a video service authorization:

If your complaint is not resolved after you have called your provider please contact the Ohio Department of Commerce at <http://www.com.ohio.gov/admn/vsa> or via PUCO's call center at 1(800) 686-7826.
