GSE Consulting, LP

GSE Consulting, LP is a national energy procurement and management firm helping companies implement strategies to control and reduce energy costs. GSE is comprised of energy professionals from leading energy companies across the country. Through our strong wholesale trading network and operations, we are able to leverage our purchasing power across trading regions nationwide to obtain the most aggressive pricing in the marketplace creating maximum savings for our clients.

Formed in 2002 following the inception of electricity deregulation in Texas, GSE Consulting has become one of the premier energy consulting and management firms in the country. GSE was recently ranked #1 in Texas and top 3 nationally, based upon total volumes managed, according to the KEMA Channel Partners Survey Report.

Electricity deregulation has created new opportunities to achieve energy savings as well as creating new challenges for managing and controlling energy costs. Identifying, managing, and maintaining energy expenditures for your facilities can be both challenging and time consuming. GSE Consulting can help make this process seamless and stress free. Our procurement strategies are tailored specifically to the individual clients' needs including the development of customized pricing alternatives as well as bill review and account management. We are continuously searching for opportunities to help our clients more effectively manage energy risk. Whether you have one facility, or hundreds of facilities nationwide, GSE Consulting is there to manage your energy procurement needs.

Brian Dafferner is one of the original founders of GSE Consulting, LP and oversees all operations nationwide. With twelve years experience in the retail energy industry, he has worked in various roles for Reliant Energy, Enron, and most recently as Director at Shell Trading Gas & Power. Brian has been involved in energy procurement services for large commercial and industrial customers since California deregulated in 1998, and manages some of GSE Consulting, LP's largest national customers in both electricity and natural gas.

Outside of his role at GSE Consulting, LP, Brian helped launch TEPA (Texas Electricity Professionals Association). As one of the founding members, he helped develop a standardized code of conduct and bylaws for which aggregators, brokers and consultants are held accountable within the state of Texas. He received his Bachelors in Business Administration at the University of Colorado in Boulder.

GSE Consulting, LLC

Plans:

We will focus on providing procurement services to medium to large sized commercial and industrial customers. Due to the current rate cap situation, initial efforts will be targeted to the Duquesne Light and Penn Powers territories. As rate caps approach expiration in other EDC's, we will expand operations to cover the entire state.

Through our principals, we have relationships in place with several licensed retail electricity providers and are actively pursuing arrangements with others. Rather than directly providing generation services, we will use these relationships and our knowledge of the market to solicit the best price possible for the customer. All options will be compared and provided to the customer and we will assist him in determining the best combination of price and terms for his particular situation. Normally our fees would be paid directly by the suppliers but disclosed to the end use customer.
