Request 21

Regarding the internal labor costs addressed in Mr. Mehring's testimony at page 9, lines 8-20, please provide the following

a. Please provide all workpapers that support the calculation of $15,300,000

Response --

The testimony has been updated to reflect the actual labor charges of $15M. The figure is based on information queried from the financial system. Labor originates on timesheets which are entered into the payroll system. The payroll charges are then passed to the Company's PeopleSoft financial system. Within the financial system, automated calculations are performed to load direct labor costs with fringe benefit costs, supervision (calculated as a percent of labor) and transportation costs.

Below is a chart showing the Direct labor from the payroll system and the loaders added by the automated Peoplesoft processes

b. Please provide electronically a breakdown for each employee, by day, of the Internal labor hours, hourly rates, company affiliation, and general duties performed during Storm Ike, that went into the development of the $15,300,000 figure. Separately include calculations for fringe benefit costs, supervision and transportation.

Response

The Company's payroll system does not capture time charged to projects by individual day.

These employees were all engaged in the restoration of electrical service during the Ike Storm event. The general duties of each employee are grouped into the following categories.

- 1-Field Operations - includes Line persons, supervision, damage assessors and other employees directly involved in the field operations of service restoration
- 2-Non Field Support - includes employees involved in back office operations, such as logistics, order preparation, planning, customer call centers, dispatching and other activities necessary to support the field operations
- 3-Fleet - includes employees maintaining and fueling the fleet of vehicles and equipment
- 4-Stores - includes employees handling materials to support the field operations
