COMMENT DESCRIPTION:

I wish to express my official protest to the PUCO regarding the request from Duke Energy of Ohio Inc. to recover cost due to any and all acts of nature and or God. I request that the PUCO NOT allow Duke Energy to place any type of "Tariff", Fee, Rider, Bill and or Rate hike in association with any and all Incimate weather including the "Wind Storm" in the summer of 2008...

Why should Consumers have to pay for something that was not ower fault in the first place? Doesn't Duke Energy have Insurance to cover for these types of events?

Also as I recall being without power for 5 days and had all my food in my refridgarator spoil and thrown out and had to find other means in which to heat/cook the food I had. I too suffered in this loss and now Duke Energy wants to "recover" for losses due to an act of nature?!? How dare they! No one did or will cover for the losses I and many others incurred related to this and other events like it... Talk about insult to injury!
