17 years ago I built an all electric style home. The agreement was stated that we would receive an RGC credit for going all electric. Having used gas heat all my life, this was a big step. I was assured that the ALL-ELECTRIC inducement would be off-set by a special discount which we received. Now we are facing the loss of this credit and further escalating exorbitant rates. Why was the promise broken by the utility??? I never would have built the house if I was not compensated for the higher rates at that time. A promise is a promise. Please do the right thing and let us keep the PROMISED discount.

Subject: Case No. 12-1230-EL-SSO First Energy New ESP3

I am writing to express my opposition to First Energy's latest rate hike request: ESP3; Case No. 12-1230-EL-SSO.

I own an all-electric home and if you grant them this request my electric bill will increase by 30 per cent.

I am at retirement age and will have to support myself and my wife on a fixed income soon. The electric bill will increase by 30 per cent but my income won't go up by 30 per cent. What about all those customers who are already retired, disabled, or living on disability who have all-electric homes. What are they going to do? Does it become a choice of paying the high price for a prescription out of pocket or skipping my medicine and paying the electric bill?

Also, being close to retirement, I am looking to downsize and move to a smaller home.

I am seriously concerned about finding a buyer for an all-electric home especially, when the cost of the utility is going to skyrocket by 30 per cent in the next couple of years. An all-electric home is losing its attractiveness.

I have a feeling that I and 300,000 other all-electric home owners will have an albatross around our necks thanks to First Energy and their rate increases.

I know First Energy is a major employer in the state. I am sure they have an enormous amount of influence in Northeast Ohio and the state.

You gave them what they wanted last time they were before you. Allowing them to break their promise of lifetime discounts for all-electric home

This time how about thinking about First Energy's customers, especially the ones with all-electric homes for a change, Look out for our interest for a change this time.

I hope this isn't a futile effort like last time.

Thank you for taking time to read and file my opposition.

Sincerely,

Lloyd Amster

Re: Illuminating Co./First Energy Account No. 110 026 264 801

We are an all electric home and our promised life-time electric rate discounts have been taken away from us. Now in addition First Energy wants to raise our rates again. This will mean a 31% increase for us in our electric bill. You are suppose to represent the consumer and we feel you are not representing us well. First Energy seems to get every thing they want concerning rate increases from you. You do not consider the consumer, on a retirement income. Our retirement doesn't go up at the rate of the electric rates. You certainly do not have our welfare in mind. Please do the job you were hired to do and represent the consumer and not be Santa Claus to First Energy.

Thank you.
