COMMENT DESCRIPTION:

case no.13-0990-EL-BGN I am an adjacent land owner to this wind industry .I feel violated by the way the wind company comes into a community and starts getting contracts signed and all in order and then tells the people in contract that this is nothing but good for their community. Then 3 or 4 years later we get to find out about it. Did the contractees hear any of the debate about the dangers looming over this business of wind turbines. I feel cheated when this company says that the taxes will help. Do the people really know that the company is coming in at the cheapest way possible when they ask for an alternative energy zone to be made by the commissioners? I am glad that our huron county commissioners have not made our county a AEZ. We should get the highest tax rate per turbine if they were really interested in helping a poor community. Perhaps we will be able to change the way these companies do business. I don't like it at all and neither would they if it happened to them in the same way. It makes me feel angry that these companies come in from foreign soil and get our tax money. We first prop them up by the production tax credit and then they take the money and run. If they did not have this incentive they would not even be building these wind turbines. Does the company give history on how communities are split in half over the debate? I am not at all happy that this wind industry is going to be in my community and in a field adjacent to my property which separates my home with a railroad track. My two children and their families live right next to us and they too will be affected. Property values go down, wildlife is at risk, health is at risk if you happen to have sensitivities to infra sound, sleepless nights and head aches are what is in store for us. The flickering and the beauty of country living will change the way we enjoy our great and beautiful country side. I have been to Van Wert and I am appaused by what used to be a peaceful and beautiful land scape. I don't want it to happen here or anywhere where there is a dense population like ours. I strongly protest this wind project coming to my neighborhood and anyone elses. Marcia Ledet
