Dear OPSB and Patrick Donlon,

I am concerned about the building of the Greenwich Wind Park in Greenwich, Ohio. Really... a park? One thinks of a park as a nice place to visit, spend time there, relax and enjoy. This industrial or commercial wind farm couldn't be any further from the truth.

It is not a place anyone would like to spend time at. I have researched wind farms in Europe, Canada, Germany, Australia and the United States.

It seems enough people have had very negative reactions living near them and they have had further and further setbacks and moratoriums as time passes. Does that history tell us anything?

There are 3 proposed wind turbines $\frac{1}{2}$ mile within our house and my two daughters homes. I have looked into what realtors say about devalued property and the difficult sale of properties that are set within a 3 mile radius of wind turbines.

I confess I did not go to the meeting at South Central or Columbus. My dad died of Alzheimer July 18, 2013 and we have cared for mom with her ailments and running two households and all the stress one more thing could not be on my plate. I regret that to the utmost degree but life is what it is.

I certainly would know ^{now} what questions to ask and oppose it if I had a second chance. I do not appreciate the manner in which all this comes about. Something needs to change.
If the circus was coming to town there would be lots of hype, lots of posters, lots of advertisement; No body wants to miss the the event. Not so with this Wind Park. The paper that brought the news to our home was very difficult to discern not to mention the lawyer language was hard to comprehend. I do not get the Norwalk reflector so I have no idea how that was presented. Needless to say I am very much opposed to this scheme. It feels sneaky and underhanded to those who have to live near them and they have no say in the matter like those who signed legal contracts up to four years before we heard a word about them. Do you call that a fair shake?

I pray daily that somehow somehow My God will deliver us from this sad situation.

I and my neighbors would like this whole project to go away and stay away from peaceful yam communities.

I would ask at least a postponement for more study of health effects on infra sound and greater and safer set backs from homes.

Sincerely,

Marcia J. Jett
