To whom it may concern,

It is our duty to our children and other future generations to support and implement policies that strive to create cleaner air for all, as well as focus on greener energy alternatives. It is the duty of energy companies to focus on policies that align with these policies. Turning a profit in today's economy is challenging for all companies, but I strongly urge PUCO to remember that good will with customers and public image are both extremely powerful and in today's environmentally minded society, focusing on even small steps towards greener energy can result in great image gains and perhaps maintain loyal customers. I urge you to invest money in greener and new technologies instead of fixing older plants with even older technologies.

Sincerely,

Melissa Fries
