Dear Sir or Madam,

We are writing concerning the exorbitant rate hikes being charged consumers by Duke Energy as well as our concerns about the coal plants along the Ohio River that supply this energy. They are among the oldest and dirtiest plants in the state.

We feel strongly about reducing toxic pollution as well as reducing our electric bills. Bailing out these old, polluting coal plants is a very poor answer to the energy problem. The bailout will only benefit the utility shareholders and delay the investment that should be made in efficient and renewable energy.

Please give this matter your consideration.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Kelley
