Dear PUCO Commissioners,

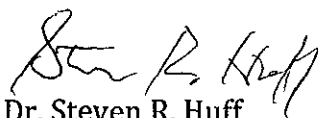

I write to urge you as strongly as I am able to promote efforts to help the citizens of Ohio become free of their dependency on coal.

There is no question, as you are no doubt aware, that energy derived from coal is costly and, more importantly, results in toxic pollution of our air, water and soil.

I have just returned from Germany where I saw first-hand the progress Germans have made in weaning themselves from coal power as well as nuclear power. A massive effort was made to convert much of their power needs to solar energy, and citizens there are overwhelmingly pleased with the change. In the long run much money can be saved -- both for the State of Ohio and its citizens -- by becoming less dependent on coal. And we can spare our children and grandchildren the enormous deleterious effects and costs of having to deal later with the consequences of the current disastrous policies.

As a voter and property owner I am strongly in favor of converting to more reasonable, efficient and safe energy sources.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Steven R. Huff

We would like you to consider reducing our dependence on coal for electricity, which will reduce mercury and other contaminants from polluting our drinking water from Lake Erie and the Ohio River.

Jim

We would like you to consider limiting pollution to our air and water, which will lead to fewer deaths and sicknesses for everyone inside and outside Ohio.
