

Overall, the agreement preserves $1 billion in annual statewide economic benefits, including tax revenues and an estimated 3,000 direct and indirect jobs created by operations at Davis-Besse Nuclear Power Station in Oak Harbor, Ohio, and the W.H. Sammis Plant in Stratton, Ohio.

The settlement also provides more than $102 million to help low-income customers with bill payment and energy efficiency programs, along with economic development funding for Ohio communities.

We believe that many of those leading the charge against FirstEnergy are from out-of-state. Please do what is best over the long term for those of us who live and do business in Ohio and approve FirstEnergy's rate plan.

We truly appreciate the leadership the PUCO has provided on these important issues, and we thank you for your consideration and support for FirstEnergy's plan which we believe will help safeguard Ohio's energy future.

Sincerely,

Please deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest, dirtiest coal plants. Our health and the health of our children & grandchildren depend on it.

Sincerely

To Whom It May Concern:

I'm writing to you to voice my opinion on First Energy's bailout request, case number 14-9297-EL-SSO. A bailout for a polluting technology only benefits utility shareholders & puts off the needed investment into efficient & renewable energy. As an environmental advocate I care about reducing toxic pollution, but as a recent college graduate & Ohio citizen, I also care about saving money. I do not want to have to accommodate by budget because of being locked into an increased electric bill rate. I would rather a solution that is both sustainable towards my personal finances and Ohio's environment.

Please, consider denying the First Energy bailout.

Sincerely,

Rachelle of Rocky River, OH

PUCO

I am writing this letter as a concerned citizen of Ohio. Please deny the rate increase to lock consumers into buying power from Ohio's oldest and dirtiest coal plants. My family and I care about our world and environment.

We care about reducing toxic pollution and saving money on our electric bills! We believe in the investment in efficiency and renewable energy.

Thank you for your attention to this request.
