Company History

Energy Alliances, Inc. was founded in 1986.

Our mission: to save our clients "energy dollars."

Our early business involved commercial energy audits and utility bill analysis. Our experience includes brokering, managing and owning apartments and hotels, real estate appraisal, industrial process management, restaurants, construction management and architectural engineering. We combined this expertise to solve difficult energy issues.

In the mid 1980s, Spence Faxon, President, was appointed to the City of Cincinnati's Mayor's Energy Task Force. Soon we would be chosen by the local utility as its chief Energy Auditor for its Non-Profit Energy Management Program or NEMP, performing energy audits for over ten years via People Working Cooperatively (PWC). We were among the pioneers in the energy industry introducing the concept of energy management to the property management industry. Our approach saved our clients millions of their energy dollars through high impact, low and no-cost improvements and employee education. We followed up with a careful application and understanding of the rules established by the Utility.

As the energy market matured, EAI marketed natural gas as an agent for Consolidated Fuel Corp. throughout the Chicago. We joined others at the negotiating table in Columbus, Ohio in the early 1990s where we helped shape the Firm Transport program on CG&E's system, now Duke Energy, always focusing on the client. Our portfolio includes:

- Thousands of energy audits & utility rate structure evaluations
- More than a decade of utility supply consulting as an agent for various entities.
- Utility cost Savings

In 1994 we officially entered CG&E's Firm Transport program and have been a leader in the program to this day currently serving as a sales agent for Integrys Energy Services, Inc., Green Bay WI. <http://www.integrysenergy.com/> in Ohio.

Energy Alliances, Inc. has remained in good standing in Ohio and with Duke Energy and the PUCO.

Energy Alliances, Inc. began marketing natural gas to commercial and industrial customer in Illinois on the Peoples Gas Light & Coke Co. and Northern Illinois Gas systems in 1998. Shortly thereafter, EAI became involved and was a key player in the Firm Transport (FT) tariff negotiations for deregulation on CG&E's system. EAI now serves 15 communities on natural gas and 4 on the Duke system through Community Aggregation programs and 2 in Northern Ohio on Columbia of Ohio since November 2007.

Energy Alliances, Inc. provides services to residential (through aggregation), commercial, mercantile and industrial customers. We establish a working relationship with the client, review the client's utility history and provide the client options as well as a suggested strategy for lowering its energy costs while managing its exposure to risk. The managing partners of Energy Alliances, Inc. answer customer inquiries personally. The company is staffed by the original founding members and others. We have a highly experienced Data Department Manager who has been with the company for over 23 years.
