PUCO

Dear PUCO:

In regards to case number 14-1297-EL-SSO for First Energy, please deny the rate increase that will lock consumers into buying power from the oldest dirtiest coal plants in operation. We would like to see the state move forward with a plan to invest in cleaner burning power plants and an investment in renewable energy.

I would like to see the state try to continue to clear the air in Northeast Ohio and around the state, since parts of Ohio have some of the worst air in the country with particulates exceeding safe levels, as measured by the American Lung Association standards.

In order to attract and retain the brightest young talent to our beloved state, these are issues that can't be ignored. All of the positive sides to life in Ohio are meaningless if people choose to live elsewhere when we choose to ignore environmental issues, which should no longer be considered a partisan issue.

The bailout of old polluting technology only benefits utility shareholder, and ignores our supposed right to breathe clean air.

Sincerely

Leo Kunkel
