Subject: Duke Transmission Pipeline

NO to the Duke Energy Pipeline!

What a terrible idea to build such a large pipeline with such intense pressure through heavily populated Greater Cincinnati areas like the three Duke is considering. I understand there were over 100 other choices for routes. Also, I am not surprised but appalled by the fact they are calling this "intrastate" in order to avoid national standards and procedures. This thing is traveling way south of Ohio. None of that gas will serve anyone in my Amberley Village residential neighborhood.

My home will be directly affected by this pipeline if it blows, and I'm sure my property value will be deflated as a result of this. Our police and fire department is on Ridge Road, which supposedly has to close for the pipe to be installed only 3 -6 feet beneath the ground! Also, 30 to 50 feet on either side of the pipe no one can dig for any reason: to plant a tree, fix a water pipe, etc.! This is a residential neighborhood! RIDICULOUS!

Please use common sense when you make the decision about this pipeline. It must go where people don't live, because of the dangers of huge explosions. I've heard that a couple of these transmission pipes have already blown elsewhere in the US and caused immense amounts of damage and loss of lives. HOW CAN POLITICIANS MAKE DEALS WITH ENERGY COMPANIES THAT PUT PEOPLE'S LIVES AT RISK.

Please make Duke revisit this, and find a route that won't put lives at risk.

Thank you,
