Ohio Power Siting Board,

We teach our children to:

- Respect and take care of ourselves
- Respect and take care of each other
- Respect and take care of the environment and as part of educating them about these principles we not only tell them about the principles, we model these principles for them at home and at school. By placing high- pressure gas lines through populated areas we do none of these. There is an alternative. Place the gas line in rural areas where the population is not at risk. I implore you to choose this alternative! It may cost a little more financially, but save a lot more in terms of safety for ourselves, others, and the environment. Do NOT install the pipeline through our residential, educational, and park areas.

Respectfully,

Debbie Mortman
