COMMENT DESCRIPTION:

Regarding Case Number 16-1852 concerning special distribution charges and renewable energy. I am much in favor of renewable energy but making rate payers pay for capital expenses as if AEP was a co-op or mutual corporation does not make sense. AEP is a stock owned corporation listed on the New York Stock Exchange and any other stock corporation would borrow money or sell additional stock on the exchange to raise funds for capital expenditures. Utilities are a special case on the stock exchange since they have guaranteed profits and pay generous dividends. Do not approve any additional charges to the distribution costs to consumers which now exceed the electricity costs on my bill. The list of extra charges seems to be limitless if these charges are allowed to continue. Thank You for your consideration on this matter.
