Yankees rout A’s 7-2 in AL wild-card game

BY RONALD BLUM
AP BASEBALL WRITER

NEW YORK — Aaron Judge got the party started with a two-run homer nine pitches in . By the time Giancarlo Stanton capped the mauling with monstrous drive in his postseason debut , New York Yankees fans already were looking ahead. “We want Boston!” they chanted.

Coming up next. “It’s going to be intense,” CC Sabathia predicted after the Yankees pounded the Oakland Athletics 7-2 on Wednesday night to win their second straight AL wild-card game. New York will take a train to Boston for a best-of-five Division Series starting Friday night, a matchup of 100-win heavyweights. “I think they’re ready and relish the opportunity to go up against the game’s best this year,” Yankees rookie manager Aaron Boone said of his players.

Boone remains a dirty word among the Fenway Park faithful. His 11th-inning homer in Game 7 of the 2003 AL Championship Series beat the Red Sox. A year later Boston overcame the Yankees and became the first major league team to bounce back from a 3-0 postseason deficit. The Red Sox went on to win their first World Series since 1918, but Boone’s drive off Tim Lincecum has not been forgotten or forgiven.

Boston went 10-9 against the Yankees this year and set a club record with 108 wins. New York became the first team since the 2001 A’s to reach triple digits in wins and fail to finish first. “We’ve just got to do our homework and come out swinging,” said Luke Voit, who broke open the game with a two-run triple in a four-run sixth .

Luis Severino atoned for last year’s flop in the wild-card game against Minnesota, pitching no-hit shutout ball into the fifth . Dellin Betances entered with two on and got six straight outs as part of a five-hitter and the Yankees extending their home postseason winning streak to seven.

Severino let out a primal scream after escaping a bases-loaded jam in the fourth with a 99.6 fastball — his fastest pitch of the night — to strike out Marcus Semien .

Yankees fans fretted about an all-or-nothing knockout match, thinking back to last year when Severino fell behind Minnesota 3-0 just 10 pitches in. New York rallied for an 8-4 win against the Twins, but the memory remained raw.

Severino retired his first three batters in order on 10 pitches.

“I think the first inning was huge for me, after all the stuff that people say on social media, all of that stuff,” he explained.

Andrew McCutchen walked leading off the bottom half against reliever-turned starter Liam Hendricks, and Judge hit a drive over the left-field scoreboard, joining Reggie Jackson as the only Yankees with four home runs in their first seven postseason home games.

“I was already excited from the national anthem on,” said Judge, who hit his second homer since returning in mid-September after missing seven weeks with a broken right wrist.

Short on options, A’s manager Bob Melvin opted for base-ball’s latest fad: starting a reliever. Hendriks (the loser) had not allowed a home run since June 24, the night before he was cut from the major league roster.

“Got into some bad counts and they made me pay,” Hendriks said.

Voit’s two-run triple missed a home run by inches. Stanton added a 443-foot drive off closer Blake Treinen in the eighth that landed in left field’s second deck, completing a power show by the team that set a major league record for most home runs in a season. Stanton’s drive left the bat at 117.4 mph and Judge’s 116.1 mph, the hardest-hit postseason home runs since measuring began in 2015.

A sellout crowd enjoyed one of those boisterous Bronx celebrations that used to be an October staple.

MLB gives Russell 40-game ban under domestic violence policy

CHICAGO — Chicago Cubs infielder Addison Russell accepted a 40-game suspension Wednesday for violating Major League Baseball’s domestic violence policy after a series of allegations made by his ex-wife.

Commissioner Rob Manfred announced the ban and said MLB had completed its investigation into the accusations made by Melisa Reidy. Russell had denied the allegations, which Reidy detailed in a blog post in September.

Russell’s unpaid suspension includes the 11 regular-season games he missed after being placed on administrative leave Sept. 21. Russell will be eligible to return on May 3 against St. Louis, barring any postponements, and he will not appeal the suspension. He will also participate in an evaluation and treatment program.

Cubs president of baseball operations Theo Epstein said he’s not sure what the odds are of Russell playing another game for the Cubs.

“Domestic violence is everyone’s problem,” he said.

Chieftain netters close out season with win over Hillclimbers

BY THE BELLEFONTAINE EXAMINER STAFF

Bellefontaine’s girls tennis team finished off the season with a 4-1 win over visiting Urbana on Wednesday in a Central Buckeye Conference makeup game.

The Chieftains wrapped up their fall campaign with a 3-13 overall record and a 2-12 mark in the league. The Hillclimbers fall to 3-17, 0-14.

Bellefontaine head coach Jim

Stein was pleased to see his team get another win over Urbana after beating the Hillclimbers 3-2 a week ago.

“It was nice for the girls to finish with a win,” said Stein. “We beat them last week in a close one, but we continue to improve. That has been the case all season, not just with one or two players but the whole team.

“It’s been amazing to see where they started to where they are finishing. I’ve never had a team make the progress they did. These kids don’t quit and this is an impressive finish for them.”

The Chieftains won two of the three singles matches. Courtney Sims defeated Bri Ussher at first singles 6-2, 6-4 and Mia Neer topped Holly Brooks at second singles 6-4, 6-0.

“This was another quality win for Courtney,” said Stein. “Her opponent had some good shots, but Courtney had an answer and could lob her when she came in. Mia did a nice job too and grabbed a solid win.”

In doubles action, Bellefontaine swept Urbana. The first doubles team of Gracie Middaugh and Na Lin beat Hannah Louck and Ashlyn Dunn 6-3, 6-4, while the second doubles team of Samantha Starkey and Meng Wang dropped Heather Packer and Rachel White 6-3, 6-2.

“Our first doubles lost by the exact same score last week,” said Stein. “We worked on getting more movement in practice. They really responded and were more aggressive this time and it paid off. Our second doubles controlled the match from start to finish.”

Urbana’s win came at second singles with Bree Stouffer beating Sierra Bensman 6-4, 6-4.

In junior varsity action, the BHS doubles team of Taryn Mullins and Meng Wang defeated Baileigh Walters and Jazmine Collins 8-0.

Soccer

“I think the cliché is ‘great players do great things in big games,’” said Henry. “I think Daunte’s performance tonight may have been an example of that. He had a lot of help, but what a special player he is.”

Bellefontaine also won the junior varsity game over Tecumseh 1-0. Kane Adinks had the lone goal for the Chiefs with an assist from Beau Salyer, while Derek Stonerock recorded the shutout in goal. Bellefontaine travels to London on Monday for another CBC contest.

GIRLS SOCCER Tecumseh downs BHS

Tecumseh defeated visiting Bellefontaine 7-1 on Wednesday in a Central Buckeye Conference girls soccer game.

The Arrows improve to 11-1-2 overall and 7-0-1 in the league. The Chieftains fall to 5-7-1 overall and 4-4-0 in the CBC Kenton Trail division.

Tecumseh led 3-1 at halftime and pulled away in the second half with four more goals.

Meredith McClain scored the Chieftains’ only goal on a penalty kick. Bellefontaine hosts London on Monday in CBC action.

Lakers blast Stivers

Indian Lake’s girls soccer team had no trouble with visiting Stivers on Wednesday in an 8-0 non-league victory. The Lakers move their record to 4-7 on the season.

Kayla Richards and Raelyn Parsell each had four goals for the Indian Lake offense, while Macie Robinson set a school record with five assists.

Golf

Bellefontaine shot 398 for a seventh-place finish.

In addition to the 86 from McLaughlin, Bellefontaine saw Shelby Starkey shoot 100, Amy Fulmer shoot 105, Madison Taylor shoot 107 and Megan Beaverson shoot 117.

BOYS GOLF

Raiders wrap up season at district tourney

Benjamin Logan’s boys golf team finished in 11th place in the Division II district golf tournament Wednesday at Glenview Golf Club in Cincinnati.

The top three teams and the top three individuals not on a qualifying team earned spots in the state tourney.

Ben Logan shot a 366. “We shot higher than I thought we would,” said Ben Logan head coach Chris Conley. “We had a good practice round on Wednesday and everyone seemed confident, but there’s a difference between plan versus action as most golfers can understand.”

Ethan Ricketts led the Raiders with an 85. He was followed by Garrett Allen with an 89, Jacob Mitchell with a 94, Bryce Loomis with a 98 and Kaiden Weaks with a 103.

“We started on the south course which is the tougher of the two sides,” said Conley. “Garrett was solid with a 43 and Jacob did well with a 47, but everyone else struggled. On the east course, however, Ethan shot a 37 to recover nicely and everyone else improved as well.

“One thing I’m very proud of our team is when things aren’t going well they don’t hang their heads but rather usually dig deep and find a way to improve.

One lady from a team we were playing with went out of her way to compliment our players on their politeness and the way the boys carry themselves. It’s not the same as going on to state but I’m proud of our season and the team.”

On the ground, senior Eli Burner ranks third in the CBC with 727 rushing yards and seven touchdowns. The Warriors’ defense is anchored by senior Nathan Snyder with 67 tackles, which is second best in the CBC.

Graham at Indian Lake

After picking up its first win last week, Indian Lake is looking to make it two victories in a row Friday when it hosts Graham in Central Buckeye Conference Mad River division action.

The Lakers (1-5, 1-0) received a huge jolt of confidence with a 35-26 win over rival Ben Logan last Friday.

The Falcons (1-5, 0-0) are riding a four-game losing streak and lost to Jonathan Alder 52-19 a week ago.

Defensively, the Falcons have two of the league’s top five tacklers. VanHoose is third with 57 and sophomore Jason Howard is fourth with 51 tackles.

Riverside at Upper Scioto Valley

Following a homecoming win over Waynesfield-Goshen a week ago, Riverside will look to keep its momentum building Friday when it travels to Upper Scioto Valley for a Northwest Central Conference game.

The Pirates (3-3, 2-1) have

Lima Perry at Ridgemont

Its another uphill battle for Ridgemont as the Gophers host a talented Lima Perry team on Friday for their next Northwest Central Conference game.

The Gophers (1-5, 0-3) couldn’t slow down Elgin in a 72-21 loss last week. The Commodores (5-1, 3-0) are rolling after a 40-6 win over Upper Scioto Valley a week ago. Perry’s offense has been playing at a high level. Led by all-NWCC running back Shane Overly, the Commodores have averaged 51 points per game the last three weeks. Their defense has given up just 18 points in that time frame.

Race to get aid to Indonesian quake victims as deaths rise

PALU, Indonesia (AP) — Nearly a week after disaster struck, aid workers raced Thursday to get shelter, food, medicine and other badly needed supplies to the Indonesian port city of Palu, ravaged by a powerful earthquake and tsunami that killed more than 1,400 people.

The Indonesian military was bringing in hundreds more troops to help with search and rescue efforts and keep order among survivors who have grown desperate six days after their lives were thrown into chaos. Hundreds of the injured and other survivors lined up on the tarmac of Palu's badly damaged airport, hoping to escape aboard military aircraft.

As help and supplies began arriving, there were other signs of progress: Trucks were hauling in new electricity poles to replace broken ones and restringing the wires. Workers said they intended to repair all the damage to the networks and substations and get them reconnected to the grid within days.

The United Nations announced a $15 million allocation to support relief efforts, saying more than 200,000 people were in dire need of assistance.

More than 70,000 homes are thought to have been wrecked by the quake, demolished by the tsunami or engulfed by mud slides. Thousands of people are sleeping in tents or in rough shelters made from debris, unsure when they'll be able to rebuild. Many spend their days trying to secure basics like clean water and fuel for generators.

"Please tell the government and the NGOs if they're really willing to help us with some food please do not give it away through the command posts," said Andi Rusding, who was huddled with his relatives under a tarpaulin. "It's better to go directly to each and every tent. Because sometime (the relief goods) aren't distributed evenly."

"It's really difficult to find water and we don't have a place to shower, but thank God we got some aid from the government, including a medical checkup," said Masrita Arifin, who was camped out a few hundred meters (yards) from her family's heavily damaged home.

National disaster agency spokesman Supoto Purwo Nugroho said most of the 1,424 confirmed dead had been buried. He told reporters in Jakarta that search efforts were being stepped up, including at a collapsed hotel in Palu where a South Korean is believed trapped.

The death toll is expected to rise as rescue crews dig and comb through debris after being slowed initially by impassable roads and other damage.

People and heavy machinery were struggling to unearth victims from expanses of earth that surged sideways due to liquefaction, a phenomenon in which an earthquake turns loose, wet soil into quicksand-like mud. Several communities were wiped out as homes suddenly sank into the mire, which has since hardened in the tropical sun.

Many victims might have survived with faster help, said Palu resident Bambang. He told local television he found a friend injured and trapped under debris but was unable to help him. The friend died, leaving a message to have him buried in front of his church, he said.

Senate gets confidential FBI background files for Kavanaugh confirmation vote

mimicking her responses to questions at last week's dramatic Senate Judiciary Committee hearing.

"I would tell him, knock it off. You're not helping," Trump ally Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., said of Trump's Tuesday night tirade. Senate Minority Leader Chuck Schumer, D-N.Y., said Trump's insults marked a "new low."

Barring leaks, it was unclear how much of the FBI report, if any, would be made public. While senators from both sides have expressed support for revealing at least parts of the findings, FBI background checks on nominees are supposed to remain confidential.

Underscoring rising tensions, Democrats suggested that previous FBI background checks of Kavanaugh may have unearthed misconduct by the nominee.

Democrats wrote to Grassley, R-Iowa, challenging a Tuesday tweet by GOP aides saying prior investigations never found "a whiff of ANY issue — at all — related in any way to inappropriate sexual behavior or alcohol abuse." Democrats wrote that the GOP tweet contained information that is "not accurate."

Committee Republicans tweeted in response that their prior tweet was "completely truthful" and accused Democrats of "false smears."

Sen. Susan Collins, R-Maine, told reporters that Trump's lampooning of Ford at a Tuesday night Mississippi campaign rally was "just plain wrong." Sen. Lisa Murkowski, R-Alaska, called it "wholly inappropriate and in my view unacceptable," and Sen. Jeff Flake, R-Ariz., said on NBC's "Today" show that the remarks were

"kind of appalling."

Those senators, along with Democrats Heidi Heitkamp of North Dakota and Joe Manchin of West Virginia, have yet to declare how they will vote.

"All of us need to keep in mind there's a few people that are on the fence right now. And right now, that's sort of where our focus needs to be," said Sen. Bob Corker of Tennessee, who has traded barbs with Trump and will retire at year's end.

Trump drew laughs

Tuesday with his rendition of how Ford answered questions at last week's hearing. "I had one beer — that's the only thing I remember," he stated inaccurately.

As he flew aboard Air Force One to the Mississippi rally, Trump was enraged by New York Times articles about Kavanaugh's high school and college years and alleging tax avoidance efforts by the president and his family, according to a person familiar with the situation who spoke on the condition of anonymity.
