Exhibit B-2 "Experience & Plans"

Background of each owner/officer is below:

John Troublefield began working with commercial and industrial energy end-users in 1990. He began as a sales representative for AmGas, Inc., one of the first natural gas marketing companies to provide third-party supply in Illinois. In 1992, John became a regional manager and was instrumental in expanding the company into Ohio. By 1995, John was responsible for 23 sales reps providing natural gas to customers on 10 local distribution companies in 3 states.

As additional states began to deregulate, it became clear that businesses with a national presence would need assistance in navigating the different rules and regulations in various states and market areas. John left AmGas in 1996 and started Energy Related Services Corporation "ERS", providing consulting, procurement, and data management services to national corporations. Today, ERS services a wide variety of companies, including Trump Entertainment Resorts, Golden Nugget Casinos, Geo Group, and Landry's, Inc.

In 2011, John recognized a need to start an energy brokering company in order to service businesses with a smaller footprint. In April 2012, Destination Energy, LLC was created. Destination Energy currently services several customers in Texas. Customer demand has DE now looking to expand its services to additional markets.

Destination Energy, LLC

James Troublefield joined AmGas, Inc. in September 1987. AmGas, a privately held company, was engaged in the marketing and management of natural gas requirements of commercial and Industrial class customers in Illinois. Responsibilities included in-depth tariff analysis, creation of detailed costs analysis of delivery options, customer acquisition, designing marketing materials, contract negotiation, problem resolution and the monitoring of daily consumption and deliveries.

In January 1991 Jim became a Regional Director at AmGas, Inc. New duties included the hiring, training and management of a six person in-house sales team. The in-house sales team achieved record sales for AmGas while maintaining the lowest overhead of all AmGas sales teams.

In 1994 AmGas was purchased by a large Midwestern Utility Company. Jim's duties included the integration of two sales teams with different cultures, while increasing market share, setting growth goals, tracking progress and migrating into new markets. Jim was also a member of the Executive Board at AmGas overseeing the overall growth and direction of the company. Jim oversaw the coordination of activities of forty-five sales people and two managers, meeting company objectives for growth and profitability.

In 1996, Jim, along with 2 co-workers started Energy Related Services Corporation, providing energy consulting, procurement, and data management services to national corporations. Today, ERS services a wide variety of commercial and industrial accounts throughout the United States.

In April 2012, Destination Energy, LLC was created. Destination Energy currently services customers in Texas. Customer demand has DE is now looking to expand its services to additional markets.

Peggy Troublefield was first introduced to the deregulated utility industry when she joined the Operations Department of AmGas, Inc. in 1988. Peggy's primary responsibilities included the daily gas nominations and balancing for the portfolio of Illinois clients. In 1991, she took that knowledge and moved into the sales department. Peggy's experience in the operations side paid off as she was able to quickly learn new tariffs and obtain clients in Illinois, Iowa and Ohio.

In 1996, she left AmGas to pursue a new venture. New gas market opportunities were opening up nation-wide and Peggy, along two of her co-workers, saw a need in the marketplace and Energy Related Services Corporation (ERS) was born. Specializing in the deregulated industry, ERS got busy learning the tariffs for a variety of utilities from California to New York. They quickly earned the business of commercial accounts with multi-state locations.

Today, ERS maintains its reputation as a leader in the deregulated gas and electric markets. A sister company, Destination Energy, is now offering similar services to smaller commercial accounts who want to achieve budget and cost control. Peggy is looking forward to expanding Destination Energy into new markets and growing the client base.
