Memorandum in Support of the Motion of Telephone Service Company to Extend Protective Order

On May 20, 2015, the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (“Commission”) directed eligible telecommunications companies to file with the Commission by July 1, 2015a report required by rules of the Federal Communications Commission. On June 29, 2015, Telephone Service Company (“TSC”) filed a partially redacted report, a full report filed under seal, and a motion for a protective order.

In its motion for the protective order, TSC stated that the information for which it was seeking protection constituted trade secrets because it was confidential business and financial information related to TSC and its owners. Motion of Telephone Service Company, Memorandum in Support at 2 (June 29, 2015). On December 19, 2017, the Commission found that the release of the information into the public domain was prohibited because it constituted trade secrets and issued an order granting the motion for a protective order with a term of 24 months. Entry at ¶ 11 (Dec. 19, 2017).

Commission rules provide that an order granting a protective order may be extended by a party by motion on a showing of continued need for the protective order. Rule 4901-1-24(D). Under this rule, TSC seeks an order extending the protective order because the information remains confidential business and financial information the release of which is prohibited by state law as the Commission previously found.

Trade secrets protected by state law are not considered public records and are exempt from public disclosure. R.C. 149.43. Trade secrets include business information such as plans and financial information that derive independent economic value, either actual or potential, from not being known to or being readily ascertainable by proper means by other persons that can obtain economic value from its disclosure and that is the subject of efforts that are reasonable under the circumstances to maintain its secrecy. R.C. 1333.61(D).

The redacted materials consist of the financial statement of Hanson Communications, Inc. and a five year business plan that extends through the current year. Hanson Communications, Inc. owns TSC and is a small privately owned company. Because of its private ownership, Hanson's financial statements are not publicly filed. Likewise, the TSC business plan is not shared publicly.

As explained in the attached affidavit of the chief operating officer of Hanson Communications, the information subject to the protective order retains its status as a trade secret. The redacted information is business and financial information of TSC. As such, the information would be useful to competitors in the telecommunications markets served by TSC to better understand the direction TSC has and will be taking and the financial capabilities of it to accomplish those goals. It retains significance since it charts the financial status of the company and its future investment plans. Moreover, the information is not available to the public as a result of reasonable efforts on the part of TSC to retain its confidentiality. Finally, the non-disclosure of the information will not impair the purpose of Title 49 of the Revised Code as the Commission and its Staff have full access to the information.

Because issuance of the order would be lawful and reasonable, the Commission should grant the motion to extend the protective order for an additional 24 months.

Respectfully submitted,

Affidavit in Support of the Motion of Telephone Service Company to Extend Protective Order

State of Ohio
Auglaize County

Upon being duly sworn, Affiant Lonnie Pedersen states as follow:

1. I am chief operating officer of Hanson Communications, Inc. Telephone Service Company is owned by Hanson.
2. I have reviewed the materials that were filed under seal in this matter and that are currently subject to a protective order.
3. The materials consist of financial records and business plans of Telephone Service Company.
4. The business and financial information Hanson and TSC is not available to the general public. Hanson is not required to make public filings of the financial information currently held under seal by the Commission and has not done so.
5. The planning records relate to a five year period that extends through the current year.
6. Efforts have been undertaken by Telephone Service Company to assure that the information that was filed under seal is not available to the public and is not shared with competitors. These efforts include the original motion seeking a protective order in this matter. Since that time, the company has maintained its efforts to retain the records as trade secrets.
7. Telephone Service Company is engaged in a competitive telecommunications market in which its plans and financial well-being are key attributes that competitors could use to gain competitive advantage if the information became available to them.
8. The information retains value since it lays out business and financial information that serve as the basis for ongoing business planning.
9. Based on my review, I believe that this information continues to require protective treatment.

Further Affiant sayeth naught.
