I recently drove through Indiana who he as numerous Wind turbine farms. It is a hideous site in respect to the skyline.. I drove close enough to see several that looked like they had a large concrete area underneath them to catch any oil that leaks plus a few looked to be inoperative and leaking oil. How will turbines leaking oil be captured in Lake Erie ? This will destroy our best natural resource ! I understand the benefits of green energy. But at what cost ? Building wind turbines over water is a BAD IDEA ! Not to mention, over a source of drinking water for thousands.
