Re: Public Information Meeting for Hecate Energy's New Market Solar Project in Highland County, Ohio

Dear [REDACTED]:

I am writing to let you know about a public information meeting scheduled for Monday, August 24, 2020 from 6pm to 7:30pm for a proposed solar energy project in your area. Affiliates of Hecate Energy LLC, Hecate Energy Highland 4 LLC and Hecate Energy Highland 2, LLC (collectively "Hecate Energy") are proposing to construct and operate the New Market Solar Farm on approximately 1,116 acres in Clay and Whiteoak Townships in Highland County, Ohio ("New Market Solar" or "Project").

The Project will consist of two separate and distinct facilities: (1) New Market Solar I, which is a 65 MW facility that will occupy 582 acres of the Project site; and (2) New Market Solar II, a 35 MW facility which will occupy 222 acres of the Project site. These facilities will generate clean, renewable electricity and deliver that electricity to the regional grid through Dayton Power & Light's Clay Substation. The facilities are designed to minimize impacts to the environment and natural resources as well as the viewshed of adjacent property owners. Construction is anticipated to begin in early 2021, with completion and the start of commercial operations by the fourth quarter of 2021.

While we would like to meet with the community to discuss the Project in person, we are sensitive to the health issues presented by COVID-19. As a result, on Monday, August 24, 2020 from 6pm to 7:30pm, Hecate Energy will host a live telephone question and answer ("Q&A") session to outline the plans for the Project and invite you to attend. The community will be able to direct questions regarding the Project to the Development Team. To participate in the live Q&A, please call 800-368-1029 (toll free) or 334-777-6981 and enter PIN 845650.

To provide you with some background regarding the Project in advance of the live Q&A session, a pre-recorded presentation is available at the Project website at <http://www.NewMarketSolar.com>. You will be able to review this at your convenience in advance of the Q&A session. A hard copy of the presentation slides are included with this letter. The hard copy includes a map of the Project site and the surrounding area. An interactive map can be viewed at the Project website as well. You may certainly submit your questions and comments to me or through the Project website in advance of the session and we will answer them during the live Q&A session.

Following the public information meeting, Hecate Energy plans to file an application for a Certificate of Environmental Compatibility and Public Need (“Certificate”) for the Project with the Ohio Power Siting Board (“OPSB” or “Board”).

The OPSB’s case number for the Project is 20-1288-EL-BGN. The docket for the case can be reviewed at <https://dis.puc.state.oh.us/CaseRecord.aspx?CaseNo=20-1288-EL-BGN>. Once the application is submitted, the Staff of the OPSB will review and investigate the application. The Staff will issue a Report and Recommendation to the Board as to whether the Certificate should issue. Once the Staff Report and Recommendation is issued, a local public hearing will be scheduled, along with an adjudicatory hearing before an Administrative Law Judge. Following the adjudicatory hearing, the Administrative Law Judge will issue a written decision and recommendation to the Board with respect to the application. The Board ultimately decides whether to issue the Certificate.

OPSB accepts written comments on the Project from interested persons at any time, as well as written or oral testimony from any person at the public hearing. Petitions to intervene in the adjudicatory hearing will be accepted by OPSB in accordance with a deadline to be set by OPSB. If you wish to contact the Board, the contact information is set forth below.

Local DAR group makes care bags for area homeless

Submitted story

Waw-wil-a-way Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the Presbyterian church on Aug. 1 wearing face masks and social distancing. New member Dixie Stiegler of Mission Viejo, California joined by Zoom. Betty Jo Fite Ratliff was sworn in as a new member. Not in attendance was new member Scarlett Huford Thomas.

Tonia Edwards presented an interesting and informative program on Daughters of Freedom, the 19th Amendment. It is amazing that it took women over 70 years to get politicians and states to agree to women's voting rights. Some of the ladies who started the movement never lived to see the fruit of their labor. This year is the 100th anniversary of the 19th amendment.

Charges: Ohio AG Yost orders House to save all HB 6 records

JPL was operated by Longstreth. Wilkin noted during a 2018 candidates forum with Ellis that Longstreth was assisting with managing his campaign. According to Randy Ladiow in The Columbus Dispatch, in addition to their 2018 campaigns being bankrolled by dark money funneled through Generation Now as members of "Team Householder," both Calender and Wilkin received campaign cash from Householder's campaign account — $7,708 and $10,208, respectively.

And, while Longstreth allegedly received laundered dark money in payment for his work on the campaign, Calender ($77,254) and Wilkin ($81,738) also paid his JPL & Associates firm from their campaign accounts for consulting and other services, the Dispatch reported.

On Aug. 7, Wilkin said he did use JPL & Associates, but he was not sure of the amount. It is alleged that Longstreth controlled the Growth and Opportunity PAC, which was responsible for the 2018 attack mailers against Ellis. In one of several fliers, Ellis was labeled "hand-picked by political insiders." The mailer had the return address of Growth and Opportunity PAC, 407 Vine Street, Suite 242, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202.

According to reports this week, federal records show Eric Lyan, a lawyer and Republican consultant in Lexington, Ky., had served as treasurer of the Growth and Opportunity PAC, the Coalition for Growth and Opportunity and Generation Now, a 501(c)(4) nonprofit that has been indicted in the federal racketeering charges.

The federal complaint alleges that Householder's "enterprise" used the coalition as a "pass-through" to transfer money from "Company A," to the Growth and Opportunity PAC to benefit Householder-backed candidates.

Wilkin has denied any knowledge of the allegations against Householder.

In a 2018 letter to The Highland County Press, Ellis wrote: "I do not want negative ads to filter across our communities clouding the judgment of our voters. I am disappointed to see the negative ads directed at me that are coming from in state and out of state supporting my opponent. I hope and pray the people across this district will see through the rhetoric and look for the substance. My eyes are cast forward, and I am working with laser focus on the issues pertaining to our communities to provide the educated and prepared representative they deserve, should I be elected to office."

Ohio Attorney General Dave Yost has written to the Ohio House of Representatives with instructions to preserve all records related to the passage of House Bill 6.

"Ohio law is not for sale," Yost said. "This office is considering legal action pursuant to Revised Code 2923.34 against all of the co-conspirators who treated it as if it was."

According to the federal complaint, investigators allege that Householder, Borges, Cespedes, Clark and Longstreth used $60 million from "Company A" with a primary objective of passing House Bill 6, which would raise $1.3 billion for the Davis-Besse and Perry nuclear plants.

Commissioners discuss national 'Monuments to American Heroes'

By CAITLIN FORSHA
The Highland County Press

Highland County commissioners Jeff Duncan, Terry Britton and Gary Abernathy invited the public to offer suggestions for a national "Monuments to American Heroes" program and gave brief updates on county business during a six-minute meeting Aug. 5.

Abernathy asked the public for feedback after the county received a letter from U.S. Secretary of the Interior David Bernhardt regarding an executive order issued July 3 by President Donald Trump. The order calls, in part, for a program "to peacefully transmit our great national story to future generations through newly commissioned monuments to American heroes."

The president has ordered the establishment of "a statutory park named the National Garden of American Heroes." A "Task Force for Building and Rebuilding Monuments to American Heroes" has been created and asked to consider potential locations and to "consider the availability of authority to encourage and accept the donation or loan of statues by states, localities, civic organizations, businesses, religious organizations and individuals for display at the National Garden."

"President Trump has issued an executive order to create a Monuments to American Heroes project," Abernathy said. "This letter from the Secretary of the Interior basically invites us to suggest people who should be part of that."

"Anyone in the public who would like to make a suggestion of who should be part of the Monuments to American Heroes, let us know, and we'll send it along." Statutes in the National Garden are to "depict historically significant Americans," such as "the Founding Fathers, those who fought for the abolition of slavery or participated in the underground railroad, heroes of the United States Armed Forces, recipients of the Congressional Medal of Honor or Presidential Medal of Freedom, scientists and inventors, entrepreneurs, civil rights leaders, missionaries and religious leaders, pioneers and explorers, police officers and firefighters killed or injured in the line of duty, labor leaders, advocates for the poor and disadvantaged, opponents of national socialism or international socialism, former Presidents of the United States and other elected officials, judges and justices, astronauts, authors, intellectuals, artists and teachers."

In county news, Duncan gave an update on repairs to the Highland County Administration Building. Britton had announced at the commission's July 29 meeting that Wayne Dancy has begun working on repairs to the brick around the Highland County Administration Building windows, which had suffered water damage.

"We're in the process of trying to figure out how that's going to be resolved," Duncan said. "I think the contractor has some ideas. We're going to have to have some new windows installed, so I know we've been in contact with a window company to come and take a look at that."

Britton reported that commissioners are looking into software upgrades for their office as well as the auditor's office. "A lot of the software is very, very old," he said. "It needs some updating. We're starting to look at that."

Abernathy also announced that he has been working to organize a meeting with the Highland County Dog Warden's Office and Highland County Humane Society representatives "to try to coordinate" their offices more effectively.

"There are some things that are the duty of the dog warden and some things that are the duty of the Humane Society," Abernathy said. "Both the dog warden and Humane Society want to do what's helpful. They want to help when the public calls and says there's a problem, whether they're staying within their own lane or not, which is fine sometimes. The goal is to get together and talk about good communication and achieving their goals."

In other action, commissioners approved the following resolution and contracts, each by a 3-0 vote.

- A resolution for a Board of Elections request for a transfer from A-00 to S-31 (CARES Grant) and appropriate to Other Expenses in the amount of $31,603.
- A contract with the Family & Children First Council (FCFC) for mental health and addiction services for state fiscal year 2021.
- A contract between the Highland County Engineer and Ohio Public Works Commission for CR 83-B road widening/resurfacing and Petersburg/Overman intersection improvement.

Commissioners also voted 3-0 to forward information requested by the County Employee Benefits Consortium of Ohio in order to receive a quote for a health care program.

The Turner Funeral Homes and Crematory is taking extra precautions during the COVID-19 pandemic so families can be together when they need each other most.

As the community continues to feel the impact of the pandemic, Turner Funeral Homes and Crematory is doing its best to protect guests visiting the funeral home facilities.

"Our number-one priority during these uncertain times is to ensure families can be together and grieve together," Craig and John Turner, owners of the funeral homes, said.

"Please rest assured our facilities are carefully treated after each visitation with a non-toxic, non-irritating disinfecting sanitizer made of hypochlorous molecules."

Hypochlorous is an N-listed ingredient effective against SARS-CoV-2 used in sanitizing hard surfaces.

"Caring for families in our community is always the top priority for the entire staff at the Turner Funeral Homes and Crematory," Craig and John Turner said.

OSU Extension news

By Christy Clary
OSU Extension Educator

If you would have asked me in January how 2020 would play out, I would not have imagined this in my mind at this time of year. I am being asked, are you ready for fair? This year, a day does not go by where I am asked, is there going to be a fair?

In accordance with the guidelines that went into effect July 31, the Brown County Senior Fairboard, the Junior Fairboard, the Junior Fairboard and Health Department are more moving forward with a modified junior fair schedule. There are still a lot of decisions that must be made to make this a successful event.

I ask that everyone be patient as this plan takes shape. It is not going to be our traditional beloved Little State Fair. We know this. But we are going to work hard to make sure that our junior fair members have the best experience possible as they showcase their projects. As the Extension Educator for 4-H Youth Development in Brown County, a large part of my job is working with the Junior Fair. I get to see the hard work and dedication every day of the youth involved and the volunteers who help. But the fair is the culmination of hard work for the young people in 4-H.

FFA, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and FCCLA. It is the chance for them to showcase their hard work and dedication to everyone else.

For the hundreds of youth that participate in 4-H and the other youth organizations, that is what the Fair is. It is not something they just do one week out of the year. It is something they prepare for all year. Our Junior Fairboard members meet two weeks after fair to recap how things went and start working toward next year.

Many of the calves from last year's feeder calf show are back in the ring this year as market steers, meaning youth have been working on those for well over a year. Our youth who take breeding livestock, home, and dog projects are the same. Those 4-H'ers work with those projects year-round, training the animal and learning themselves. The fair is their chance to show off what they have accomplished.

For our non-livestock projects, youth pick a topic area and learn about it in-depth, exploring different aspects and learning new skills. They then go through interviews to share what they learned. This also helps them to build workforce skills. At the fair, they get a chance to see that hard work come to fruition through the award ceremonies.

For those not involved in 4-H and the Junior Fair, the fair is a very different experience and they look forward to other things. Unfortunately, with the current events, those other fair favorites are not possible this year. So now, we must follow the 4-H motto and slogan and continue to learn by doing and make the best better, by working together to make this the best Junior Fair we can.

And this means we all have a lot of things to do, including doing things we do not always want to do. This means wearing masks. This means physical distancing. This means being positive role models for the youth in our county. This means cheering - even louder for every kid in the ring. And a lot of things we have not figured out yet. Please be patient as those who are working hard to make this a positive experience for the kids.

The 4-H program is part of the Ohio State University Extension services. For more information on the 4-H program and how to get involved, contact the Brown County OSU Extension Office at 937-378-6716. Our office is temporarily closed due to COVID-19, but we are available by phone. Hall donates to Mission

Since March, many local people have been put under strains that we never imagined would be a part of our 2020.

Because of this, more community members than ever are struggling to pay their grocery bills and just food on their tables. Paul Hall & Associates saw this need and wanted to help a local mission group provide even more services.

The Williamsburg Community Mission is a local collaboration of churches that was formed to help those who need a little assistance getting their feet back on the ground.

They provide groceries to families in need on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Fridays as well as a nutritious lunch (two Saturdays a month).

"We really wanted to do something that benefited those who are in a tough spot due to the pandemic," said Paul Hall, President and CEO of Paul Hall & Associates.

"At Paul Hall & Associates, we try to support our communities in many ways. Right now, we see a need in our communities for fresh and healthy foods for the family table. By donating to the Williamsburg Community Mission, we are able to help fulfill this need for community members."

We hope this $1,000 goes to help many families in our area to not only have food for the table, but to alleviate some stress from the bottom line. It may only be August, but we don't have to wait for "the giving season" to give to others.

Marty Cornelison/The Brown County Press

An outdoor revival was held in the Mt. Orab Park the week of August 10.

Revival in Mt. Orab

By Marty Cornelison

Resonance Lead Pastor Aaron Kirk is taking advantage of the weather until the return of indoor church gatherings. The event grew out of a Church in the Park event held on July 18th. With that success, they immediately began planning the First Love Revival for August 10th-14th.

"Honestly, I had no idea what to expect for the revival," said Kirk. "I know some people have stuff going on. I know that's tough on people. We felt like we wanted to do something to help get Christians and the body of Christ back focused on God during covid and all the other craziness going on right now."

The week began strong with 300-350 people showing up each evening for worship music followed by a message. Families quietly listened in spaced out groups of lawn chairs and picnic blankets. Kirk was joined through the week by speakers from inside and outside Resonance as well.

"At Resonance we say we're a kingdom church, meaning we don't compete with other churches," Kirk explained. "We're all on the same team. So we want to partner with other churches and bless other churches and help other churches. We all agree on gospel, and the power of prayer, and the importance of living for God."

Many churches in Brown County went to virtual and online services during the earlier stages of the outbreak. Kirk said he felt compelled to meet as a group again but to "do it outdoors and socially distant and trying to be safe for everybody at the same time." His caution was borne out of his own experience with the virus.

"I got sick. I had the Coronavirus back in the beginning of June," he shared. "I had a fever for 3 or 4 days. I did have a cough, but the respiratory side was very mild for me. Basically for 3 or 4 days I didn't have energy and didn't feel like doing anything. I lost my taste and sense of smell for a week, which was, honestly one of the worst parts for me because food becomes meaningless. But everybody's going to have a different experience."

Now that Kirk has recovered his health, he and his team are taking huge steps for their community. He quoted from a pastoral influence of his, Ed Stetzer: "We can't allow the moment we're in to distract us from the mission we're on."

"Brown County is our mission field," Kirk declared. "We are being tested, challenging times test us. And either you're gonna get frustrated and angry, or you're gonna get more compassionate and loving. God wants us to get more compassionate and more loving."

Their next scheduled event is a Baptism service at Lake Waynoka Beach at 11am on Sunday, August 16th.

Church in the Park will continue on Sundays at 11am beginning August 24th, and for "as long as the weather holds out," said Kirk.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC INFORMATION MEETING FOR PROPOSED MAJOR UTILITY FACILITY

Hecate Energy schedules public information meeting for Monday, August 24, 2020 from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. to outline plans for 100 MW solar-powered electric generation facility in Highland County, Ohio.

Hecate Energy 4 LLC and Hecate Energy 2, LLC (collectively "Hecate Energy") invite interested members of the public to participate in a public information meeting to outline plans to build the New Market Solar Farm, a 100 MW solar-powered electric generating facility to be located on approximately 1,116 acres in Clay and Whiteoak Townships in Highland County, Ohio ("New Market Solar" or "Project").

The Project will consist of two separate and distinct facilities: (1) New Market Solar I, which is a 65 MW facility that will occupy 582 acres of the Project site; and (2) New Market Solar II, a 35 MW facility, which will occupy 222 acres of the Project site. These facilities will generate clean, renewable electricity and deliver that electricity to the regional grid through Dayton Power & Light's Clay Substation. The facilities are designed to minimize impacts to the environment and natural resources as well as the viewshed of adjacent property owners. The general purpose of the Project is to provide power to the PJM grid. Construction is anticipated to begin in early 2021, with completion and the start of commercial operations by the fourth quarter of 2021. Due to the health issues presented by COVID-19, Hecate Energy will host a live telephone question and answer ("Q&A") session on Monday, August 24, 2020 from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. to outline the plans for the Project and invite you to attend. The community will be able to direct questions regarding the Project to the development team. To participate in the live Q&A, please call 800-368-1029 (toll-free) or 334-777-6981 and enter PIN 845650 on Monday, August 24, 2020 at 6 p.m.

To provide you with background regarding the Project in advance of the live Q&A session, a pre-recorded presentation is available at the Project website at <http://www.NewMarketSolar.com>. You will be able to review this at your convenience in advance of the Q&A session, as well as download the presentation slides.

A map of the Project location is below, and an interactive map can be viewed at the Project website as well. Printed presentation materials can be mailed in advance if requested by Wednesday, August 19, 2020. Please make requests for printed materials by emailing us at NewMarketSolar@HecateEnergy.com or calling 833-536-0023 (toll-free). You may also submit your questions and comments in advance of the live Q&A session to the same email or phone number, or directly through the Project website.

Mobile Mammography van coming back

Have concerns about COVID-19 caused you to put off your annual screening mammogram? You're not alone and experts nationally fear a rise in later stage cancer diagnoses as a result of the pandemic. It's important to remember that the earlier the diagnosis, the better the outcome and there are options available for safe cancer screenings.

Consider having your annual screening through Mercy Health - Cincinnati's Mobile Mammography program, which offers safe and easy screenings from its mobile unit at locations convenient to your home or workplace.

There's no need to sit in a waiting room when you visit the mobile unit, where a skilled, masked technician following CDC guidelines will complete your screening in about 15 minutes.

The mobile van will be at Mt. Orab Family Medicine at 621 W Main St in Mt. Orab August 28, 2020, at 1 p.m.

For best coverage, please verify that Mercy Health - Cincinnati and The Jewish Hospital are in-network providers with your insurance carrier. If you are uninsured or underinsured (have high deductibles), we have financial need-based assistance programs available to help you. Call 513-686-3300 for more information.
