Reference case # 21-0960-EL-B6N

When we purchased our land in 1999 it was for the sole reason of getting away from the commercial aspects that come from living in the city. We have twenty acres and are surrounded by farm land. We went to the trouble of finding out who those neighbors were and asking them if they had any intentions of selling for development of any type and if so would they sell to us. We enjoy our landscape and privacy immensely. If we had known anything like this would be a part of our future we would have kept looking.

There is no way that anyone can say with any knowledge whatsoever that this is not going to affect our property value! Not to mention the great displeasure that we will have every day by having to look at this eyesore. What little bit of time I have had to research, because we were just recently told of this project, there are numerous downsides to these types of projects.

Hazardous runoff from damaged lenses.

Habitat degradation.

Electromagnetic radiations.

Property value drops.
